23 From Napanoch Hospitalized, Many Critical

Inmate Dies in Prison Drug Spree

By JON POWERS—

NAPANOCH Overdoses of a pharmaceutical drug Thursday killed one East-ern Correctional Facility inmate and sent at least 23 others to hospitals, several in critical condition, the state Correctional Services Department said. The drug, apparently phenobarbital, probably was taken by inmates from a secured store of six-year-old civil defense supplies at the maximum-security institution, prison officials said.

Officials also said today that tablets have already been found in the prison yard. A spokesman said that 90.95 per cent of all inmates at Napanoch have been convicted of drug related crimes. Dead was Joseph Walsh, 23, of 2160 Newbold Avenue, the Bronx. Another man was so near death, a department spokesman said, that prison officials initially reported two inmates killed. But hospital attendants found the unidentified prisoner still alive when guards brought him to a nearby hospital, so his stomach was pumped out and he was admitted in critical condition to the intensive-care ward.

Ten inmates were taken to Kingston Hospital Thursday afternoon; three were immediately placed on the critical list and four were returned to the prison after treatment, according to the spokesman, Gerald Houlihan. Three more inmates were released from the hospital today. Two inmates remain in critical condition in the hospital's intensive care unit; the third was removed from the critical list today, but remains hospitalized. At least 13 others were admitted to Ellenville Community Hospital, two in critical condition. Those two, according to a hospital spokesman, have since been removed from the critical list and are now reported in serious condition. The spokesman said most of the rest are expected to be discharged today.

Houlihan said the Eastern authorities Thursday afternoon found a 500-tablet bottle of phenobarbital unopened in an exercise yard of the 71-year-old facility. But he said corrections officials had made no definite link between the illnesses and the bottle of powerful granular barbiturate, used as an anti-spasmodic drug.

An administrator at Ellenville Hospital said doctors told him the illnesses and death were caused by a phenobarbital overdose. That drug, a sedative and laxative, also is not available at the prison infirmary, Houlihan noted.

Flooding from a broken sewer or water main near one of the compound's buildings Wednesday reached into a basement where civil defense supplies have been kept, at least since 1966, he said. The supplies were under lock and key with a screened partition separating them from the rest of the cellar. After a detail of prisoners was sent into the basement to mop up the water, Houlihan said, there were "indications that the screen was broken and they were able to reach some of the boxes containing medical supplies."

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp investigated at the scene, and then transported Walsh's body to the Ulster County Morgue in Kingston where an autopsy was to be performed. Chipp said today that vital organs have been sent to the State Police laboratory in Albany for analyses, and that results are not expected before next week.

Dr. Mansur Dahodwala, the prison's physician, treated the stricken inmates at the prison until they could be transported to area hospitals by ambulances from Ellenville and Kerhonkson. It was reported that prison guards took some of the inmates to the Ellenville hospital in their personal cars.

Police were stationed at both hospitals to guard the inmates. Mitchell said he had not had an opportunity to poll his members to see if they would be willing to go out in the face of the restraining orders.

Mitchell believes the issue of reclassification for the guards positions might be the determinant in whether or not to strike. The guards have been seeking to have their job receive a higher classification. The higher the classification, the more money. It was the agreement by the state to let the issue go before the State Division of Compensation and Classification that averted the strike last Friday.

The case was heard before the division Tuesday, and a decision was expected today. A favorable decision may head off a strike.

A meeting had been called in Albany for the heads of all Council 82 locals for today. It was expected that the decision on whether or not to strike would be decided upon by the local heads.

Albert Wright, president of Walkkill Council 82 local, said the members of his union were considering a "job action" not a strike. It is illegal for a public employee, under New York State's Taylor Law, to strike. If the guards do go out at midnight tonight, they will call it a job action.

State Supreme Court Justice Edward Conway, in Albany, signed a restraining order Thursday against the impending strike. That order also orders the union to appear in court next Friday to show cause why it should not be permanently restrained from striking. Conway's order applies to all locals.

In Buffalo, State Supreme Court Justice Frederick M. Marshall signed an order Thursday restraining only the guards at Attica's maximum security prison.

State Officials Gird For Guards' Strike

By WADE BURKHART

Prison officials across New York State, including the Ulster County area, while making no definite statements, firmed up plans today for the impending strike by prison guards, members of the Security Employees Council 82, AFL-CIO. Labor leaders were also making plans as the strike has not yet been called off, despite court orders that have been issued against it. Deputy Superintendent Joseph Perrin, of the Eastern State Correctional Facility at Napanoch, said plans have been made to carry on in the face of any "job action by prison guards and other employees, but he pointed out negotiations were still in progress, and prison authorities still hope a strike can be averted. Though neither Perrin nor superintendent of the Wallkill Correctional Facility, Harold Butler, would say what the prisons have planned to fill in for the guards if the guards do strike, it is known that National Guard members will be on standby over the weekend.

The plans for last Friday, when a strike by Council 82 was called off seven hours before the deadline, were for the prisoners to bring in state troops, followed the next day by National Guardsmen. Thomas Mitchell, vice president of the Napanoch local of Council 82, said the 4 p. m. to midnight shift might be ordered to remain at the prison if the strike comes off at its midnight (tonight) deadline.

Johnson In Hospital

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson was admitted to the University of Virginia Hospital's cardiac unit early today suffering from chest pains.

Dr. Richard S. Crampton, associate professor of internal medicine at the hospital here and Johnson's physician, said the former president is comfortable, his condition stable, and he is undergoing tests.

Dr. Crampton declined to say specifically that the ex-president had suffered a heart attack.

Johnson had been visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb, in this university city and apparently began suffering chest pains shortly before 4 a. m.

Reds Take Town Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops captured a district town 75 miles north of Saigon today and opened a fourth front in their nine-day old offensive with more than a dozen attacks on towns and bases in the Mekong Delta to the south.

U.S. warplanes meanwhile hammered North Vietnamese forces in North and South Vietnam and neighboring stretches of Laos with more than 600 strikes. Two Navy fighter bombers and a big rescue helicopter were shot down, the U.S. Command said, and six Americans were missing.

The district town of Loc Ninh fell after fighting so close that an air spotter overhead reported the defending South Vietnamese were calling artillery fire in on their own positions. The spotter reported eight to ten North Vietnamese tanks attacking the town, and later the South Vietnamese command announced that Loc Ninh was abandoned during the morning after four days of heavy attack.

The Viet Cong radio claimed that the South Vietnamese garrison surrendered after Communist forces killed, wounded or captured 400 of the defenders. But Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, the chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said the government troops "moved out to an area outside the city."

Casualties on both sides were reported heavy. Government forces also abandoned Fire Base Hung Tam, five miles southwest of Loc Ninh and 10 miles below the Cambodian border, to the enemy. Field reports said elements of four North Vietnamese divisions had crossed the Cambodian border in force and penetrated at least 20 miles into South Vietnamese territory.

Small enemy units slipped to within 20 miles of Saigon and damaged a bridge on Highway 13, the north-south road from the border. A bypass was being used. Enemy forces were reported to have cut the highway temporarily in nine places south of An Loc, the capital of Binh Long Province 60 miles north of Saigon. Government troops were making sweeps in an effort to keep the route open to supply convoys. An Loc itself was threatened, and positions all around it were under rocket and mortar attack. But the Saigon command said the government still held the town.

Few details were known of the attacks in the Mekong Delta, but the command said 40 of the enemy and 10 government troops were killed and 23 government men were wounded. The threat to Saigon was not considered immediate, senior officers said, but the urgent need for reinforcements drained the capital region of its reserve forces.

President Nixon has been able to avoid the politically dangerous decision of ordering a full-scale air attack against the North.

In a speech Thursday to the Overseas Writers Club, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the initial U.S. air strikes penetrated 40 to 50 miles north of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

The bombing, he said, "will be laid on against those targets supporting the battle and they'll be laid on until the support is terminated."

Asked if the current offensive might be the decisive battle of survival for South Vietnam, Moorer replied that because of the large percentage of Communist troops committed to the struggle its outcome will be "very significant."

From Kansas to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A squadron of Kansas-based fighter-bombers is en route to Southeast Asia as U.S. officials consider whether to commit still more planes to counter the new North Vietnamese attack.

As further evidence of the U.S. air buildup in Southeast Asia, it was learned that a number of air units in several states have been alerted for possible deployment.

But apparently the only unit to get flying orders Thursday was the 23rd Tactical Fighter Wing at McConnell AFB, Kan., which dispatched one squadron of F105 all-weather jet attack planes across the Pacific. A squadron normally numbers 18 planes.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird called a news conference today with every indication he was prepared to discuss the course of the war. He would be the first senior administration official to do so since the Communist offensive began a week ago.

The Nixon administration has emphasized a number of times this week that although it is keeping its options open, the battle action will not stop American troop withdrawals.

But expanded air and naval support of the South Vietnamese is another matter. Twenty B52 bombers were flown from their American bases to Southeast Asia earlier this week, and two additional aircraft carriers steamed into the area.

Nearly all the U.S. planes in Southeast Asia were thrown into the massive aerial attack against North Vietnam Thursday before the Pentagon ordered still more reinforcements.

The Pentagon refused to discuss the latest aircraft movements because of "security purposes." But some officials hinted that even more American-based air units may be sent to the war zone in the next few days.

"We will take whatever precautionary measures are necessary to protect remaining U.S. forces in Vietnam," said a Pentagon spokesman.

Meanwhile, the Nixon administration is retaining a cautious stance in estimating the success of the U.S.-aided South Vietnamese defensive effort. But some high sources in Washington are saying Saigon forces are showing they can and will fight.

Some administration analysts say the increasing capability of Saigon forces has allowed the United States to carefully measure its response. That means, they indicated, that

Grand Union Proposal Vetoed

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Acting Mayor T. Robert Gallo, after lengthy discussions with Mayor Francis R. Koenig, vacationing in Florida, has vetoed legislation passed by the Common Council on Tuesday night allowing the construction of a Grand Union supermarket on the site of the vacant St. Anne's Convent on Broadway and Orchard Street.

Gallo's veto statement reads in full: "After a lengthy discussion with Mayor Koenig, who is away on vacation, he has once again very strongly expressed his views on legislation now pending before me. In view of his conversation with Mayor Koenig and his very strong feeling on the issue and his great concern for the development of our city, I am going along with his decision to carry out his wish which he feels is in the best interest of the total development program of the city of Kingston and therefore, veto this legislation."

for St. Anne's, when notified Tuesday night, John Smith, one of Gallo's decision, said, "I of the owners of Smith's Market, declared that he was breaking off negotiations with the developers, the Hanover Company of Merrick, L. I. Now that Gallo has vetoed the Grand Union legislation, both Smiths, John and his father, Charles, are "doubtful" if they will resume negotiations. The elder Smith said their market would be a break-even operation until the proposed Kingston Arterial is completed.

"We're figuring a five-year projection for that road," Smith said. "And there's still the possibility that if the administration changed, Grand Union might be allowed to go in Avenue had been considered there" (at St. Anne's). The issue now goes back to the Common Council which can either attempt to override the mayor's veto or accept it.

Case Referred To Grand Jury

KINGSTON After a preliminary hearing before Special City Judge George A. Beck on Wednesday on a charge of robbery first degree stemming from a reported holdup at an Eddyville store, William Daniel Dibble, 20, of 203 Greenliff Avenue and East Cester Street was continued in bail of $3,000. Judge Beck referred the case to grand jury.

Cornelius Salata, proprietor of a grocery store on Route 213 in Eddyville, who was the victim of the holdup that occurred at his place of business the night of March 9, testified that the defendant looked like the man who robbed him of $65. The witness later identified Dibble as the man who walked into his store and demanded money.

Albert Hrdlicka, assistant district attorney, asked Judge Beck to increase the $3,000 bail to the original amount that had been fixed at $10,000 following Dibble's arrest. Beck continued the bail at the lesser amount. Dibble was taken into custody by Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman and Detective Floyd Krom on March 27. The defendant, who was represented in court by Attorney William D. Pretsch, continued a plea of innocent.

Three Killed In Plane Crash

SKANEATELES, N.Y. (UPI) — A twin-engine private plane carrying executives of a highway construction company made a crash landing and sank in Skaneateles Lake Thursday, killing three of the six men aboard.

The crash occurred in a snowstorm minutes after the plane took off from the private airstrip of the D. W. Winkelman Construction Co., in this Onondaga County community southwest of Syracuse.

Killed were William J. Delany Jr., 44, of Skaneateles, a vice president and general superintendent of the firm; Gary S. Norris, 56, of Penn Yan, an assistant chief engineer; and Clarence A. "Bud" Kirley, 52, of Skaneateles, the company's chief pilot.

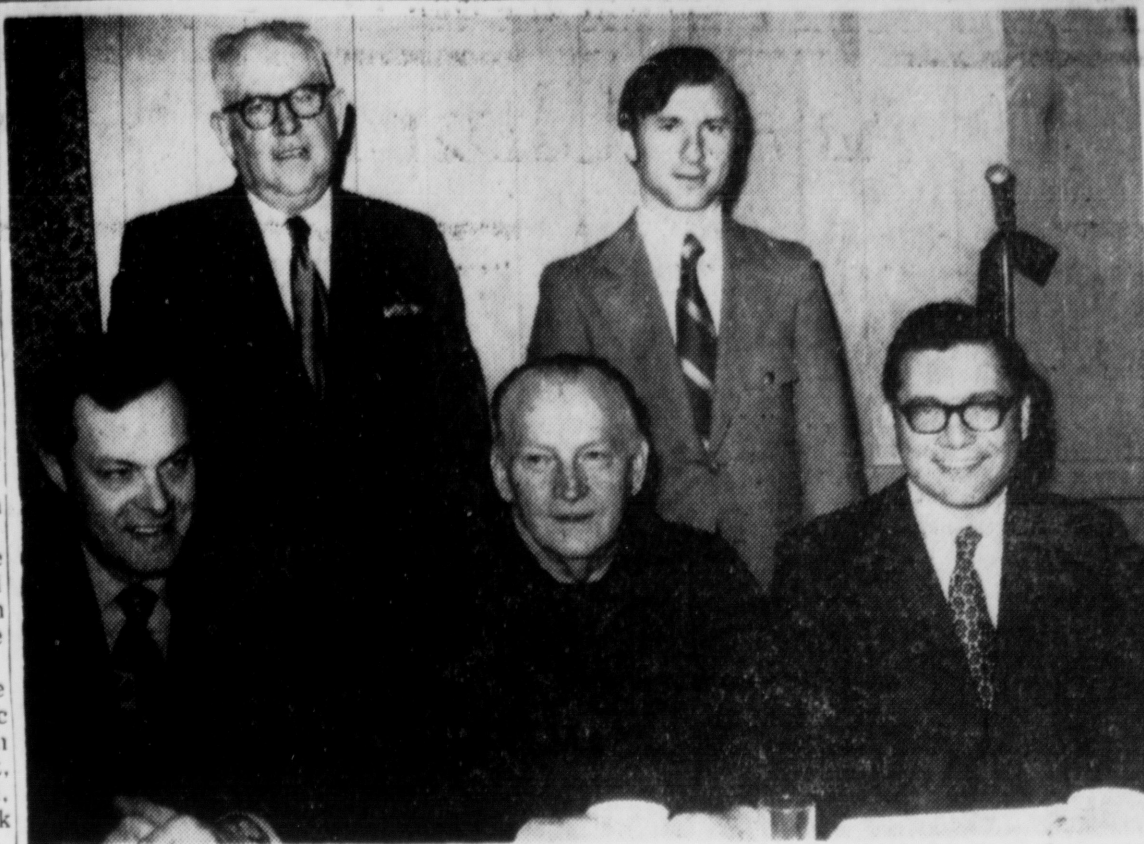

Witnesses said the plane faltered, began losing altitude and might have clipped a tree as it came in low over the Skaneateles Country Club and landed on an ice shelf in the half-mile-wide lake.

It spun around twice on the ice and skidded off the ice into open water about 18 feet deep, state police said.

Officials said they believed the plane was on a flight to Pennsylvania.

The survivors, who crawled out of the craft before it sank and were rescued by boat, were taken to Auburn Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries and exposure.

Injured in the crash were Clement G. Curtin, 64, of Syracuse, the firm's executive vice president; his son, Clement Jr., 38, of Manlius, a company engineer; and John O. Abbott, 33, of Skaneateles, a company lawyer and vice president.

Four Inches Of April Snow Recorded Here

KINGSTON

April showers became "white rain" in an overnight return of winter that slicked Ulster County highways today.

The city engineer's office recorded a four inch accumulation of snow through this morning. More snow is predicted through Saturday although it is expected to be just flurries in the cold and windy air.

The storm started as freezing rain at about 6:40 p. m. Thursday turning to snow at approximately 8 p. m., decorating the trees with a heavy mantle. Fortunately only one storm incurred power outage was reported. Approximately 15 customers on Ohayo Mountain Road, Woodstock were without electricity for a time due to downed lines.

In Kingston, Board of Public Works crews salted streets through the night and there were no reports of traffic difficulties today.

Nearly half a foot of heavy wet snow had been dumped on a wide area of upstate New York since Thursday afternoon, slicking down highways, snarling traffic, recalling snowplow crews, and causing at least seven storm-related deaths.

The reputed snow capital of the state, the Oneida County hamlet of Boonville, registered an all-time record of 304 inches of snow since the white stuff started falling last Thanksgiving. The record came early in the evening, with 55 inches on the ground and more to come. One source said he expected boots and snowmobiles to be the rule until early or mid-May.

In Tompkins County, a town of Ulysses snowplow collided with a truck on a rural highway, killing the driver of the pickup truck. The plow driver was uninjured.

Low Bidders Are Listed For Renovation

KINGSTON

Williams Construction of Kingston was the apparent low bidder at $27,130 on a proposal to convert a one-family house at 33 Abruyn Street into a two family house. The building has been vacant for several years. Mercury Construction of West Camp was second low bidder at $28,500. High bid was from Steve Szymanski of Kingston at $45,400.

Bids were opened at the Kingston Home Improvement offices at 672 Broadway. Frank Cardinale, project director, said the bids will now be forwarded to federal officials for approval. Construction is expected to begin in about six weeks.

Rochester Lists Ecology Dates

ROCHESTER

Trucks will be at the Rochester Town Building in Accord Saturday and Sunday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. to collect paper, glass, and aluminum, in conjunction with the county-wide drive on those days, according to an announcement made at the Rochester Town Board meeting Thursday night.

The board members urged all to cooperate with the drive, as landfill space is limited and cooperation will aid the ecology in several ways.

The Highway Department will work with youth groups on the Earth Day, April 21, in the picking up of refuse.

The county recycling drive came in for much discussion, with all urging cooperation.

The term of Jack Schoenmaker on the zoning board of appeals has expired, and Wallace Lawrence was appointed to fill it.

The board approved a request by Marvin and Betty Walh for a change for their property to B-2 zoning. They have a kennel on Route 209.

A request by Sam Kates for a change in zoning for a portion of his property from R-1 to A zoning was rejected. The board felt a more specific use must be specified before approval, and will reconsider the request if a particular use is specified.

The meeting was adjourned in memory of Saul Altholz.

Non-Public School Problem To the Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will be asked to define how government can support church-run schools, but President Nixon may come up with his own solution first.

Nixon went to Philadelphia Thursday to strengthen his pledge to develop an "equitable, workable and constitutional" method to funnel government dollars into non-public schools.

In the same city a few hours later, a three-judge federal court struck down a seven-month-old Pennsylvania law which sent nonpublic school aid to parents, rather than to the schools. The law was the result of specific efforts to tailor provisions to earlier Supreme Court guidelines.

John Cardinal Krol, archbishop of the Philadelphia Roman Catholic Archdiocese, said the ruling would be appealed to the Supreme Court, which held last June that some forms of government aid to church schools are constitutional.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote that "the crucial question is not whether some benefit accrues to a religious institution as a consequence of the legislative program, but whether its principal or primary effect advances religion."

The primary effect of the Pennsylvania law was to advance religion, said the decision Thursday by federal Appeals Court Judge William Hastie and District Court Judges Joseph S. Lord and John B. Hannum.

"The state has no more power to subsidize parents in providing a religious education for their child than it has to subsidize church-related schools to do so," the judges wrote.

Nixon took note of the constitutional tightrope in a speech to a Catholic educators' group in Philadelphia.

"We are all aware of the very grave constitutional questions which have arisen in the past, each time the states or the federal government have undertaken to provide aid to nonpublic schools," he said.

Nixon promised "specific measures designed to preserve the nonpublic school system in the United States" after the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations and the Presidential Commission on School Finance complete studies.

The Pennsylvania law authorized $47 million a year to reimburse parents for tuition at 1,590 nonpublic schools, all but 250 of them Catholic.

Meanwhile, the dispute over parochial aid continues in state legislatures and courts.

There are 32 pending lawsuits which either challenge or seek public funds for church-related schools, according to the American Jewish Congress.

The National Catholic Education Association said last fall that 19 states either have passed or were considering legislation to help parochial schools.

Man on Trial, Refused Busing For Daughter

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)—An auto worker who said he would rather go to jail than to have his 13-year-old daughter bused crosstown to attend school went on trial Thursday on a charge of child neglect.

Carl E. Merchant, 34, the first parent to be prosecuted for withholding a child from school because of Pontiac's controversial court-ordered busing plan, said he bought a new home last year four blocks from a junior high school in a predominantly white Northwest Side neighborhood so his daughter, Cari, could attend school there.

Under the integration program that went into effect in September, however, she was required to attend a junior high school on the city's predominantly black Southwest Side.

"I will not let my girl go down to that area even if I have to go to jail," said Merchant, who is white. "My main concern is the general area of the school. It's a high crime area. I have the right of a parent to look out for my child's safety."

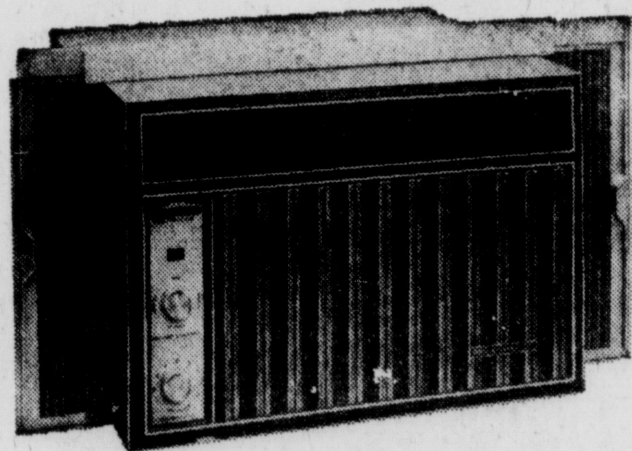

Pontiac Police Capt. Harry Nye, testifying at Merchant's trial in Oakland County Circuit Court Thursday, said the school was in "an unsafe area" where police patrols always consist of at least two officers.

Merchant has kept Cari home from school since classes opened. He also kept his other five school-age children, two of whom were included in the busing program, to protest the integration order of U.S. District Court Judge Damon Keith.

Merchant, a weld inspector at General Motors Corp.'s Fisher Body plant here, said he found it "ridiculous" that his daughter had to be bused crosstown when there was a school near her home.

"A lot of people feel the same way but they're too afraid" to resist the busing order, Merchant said.

"The people of Pontiac and Detroit have to know what's going on. I feel that I'm representing more people than just me."

Contingency Plans Call for A-Bomb

WASHINGTON — If the communist offensive should threaten the orderly withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam, President Nixon is prepared to use nuclear weapons against the attackers.

We reported on March 1, 1971, that contingency plans had been drafted for nuclear warfare in Indochina. Competent sources stressed that nuclear weapons would be used only as a last resort if the President concluded there were no other way to save our boys.

We can now report that the contingency plans have been constantly revised and updated. Like pre-written newspaper obituaries, they are ready in case the dwindling U.S. forces should be pushed into a Dunkirklike corner.

The secret plans call for using "nukes" of different magnitude, depending on the targets. "An air blast or a ground blast" might be used, say our sources. This would be determined by how much we wanted to limit the destruction.

Our key sources, for their own protection, have asked us to withhold their identities. But a former sergeant, who worked on the contingency plans, not only has agreed to let us name him but has offered to testify before Congress on the nuclear targeting.

He is James Walkley, a former Air Force sergeant, who used to work on target planning at Hickam Field in Hawaii. His specialty was Laos.

Targeting Room

The nuclear targeting, he told us, is done in "a special little room. You have to have an SI (Special Intelligence) clearance to get inside."

"I worked with the people, so I knew what they were doing," Walkley said. "With a nuke, you'd have to drop a certain type on a certain type of target."

The plans were constantly worked over, he said, although it sometimes seemed to him that the Air Force merely "wanted to keep the guys busy."

Walkley said he had provided target information to the nuclear experts, although his main job was targeting conventional bombing.

He could name others who labored over the nuclear contingency plans, he said, but he couldn't guarantee they would testify.

Footnote: The former sergeant was kicked out of his top-secret job in 1970 after he became distressed with his target-planning role and began to work against the Vietnam War. He was court-martialed but acquitted, and then given an honorable discharge.

Washington Whirl

Suspicious Travelers—When Mrs. Helen Hays, a Chinese-American educator, traveled to China for a visit, the FBI began checking into her activities. The agents said it was "routine" for the FBI to look into all visitors to China who were "suspected of being friendly with Communist China." At about the same time, another American visitor was expressing friendly feelings toward the Chinese Communists. However, the FBI presumably will not investigate President Nixon.

Barbour Cut—The State Department secretly sought to get Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., to change a statement he made in closed session of a House committee studying the Mideast. Commenting on the abilities of Ambassador to Israel Walworth Barbour, Wolff remarked that "the job may be too much for Mr. Barbour." Disturbed, the State Department tried to get Wolff to soften or eliminate his criticism. But Wolff balked, and the statement will be printed as he gave it.

Laziness Standards—Officials at a Navy medical dispensary in Norfolk, Va., claim to have found a connection between long hair and laziness. Failure to observe hair standards as spelled out by Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, wrote the dispensary officials, "carries connotations of laziness, inattention to details, recalcitrance, or a lack of personal pride, real or affected." Now that's a real advance in scientific knowledge. The logical conclusion is that our longhaired forefathers must have been positively slothful. And most women, to use the Navy's logic, must be lazier than men.

Marks Plan—Four years ago, Leonard Marks invited the leaders of Peking to send news to the U.S. to cover the 1968 presidential campaign. He was then the U.S. Information Agency chief. Now as a lawyer in private practice, he is renewing the proposal. He believes it would be useful for the Chinese Communists "to see how Americans choose their President." The uncensored Chinese newscasts, he suggests, should be beamed into China on the Voice of America.

Humphrey's Women—Senator Hubert Humphrey has instructed his campaign staff to "include more and more women in our organizational structure and in our plans." In a confidential memo, he declared: "I will condone no tokenism. In other words, we are not going to have just one woman for display in a top position, or one black or one youth. I believe in the involvement of people on the basis of their ability. And since women have been so selectively excluded not only in government but in industry and academic life, it will be necessary to place extra emphasis upon the appointment of selection of women. The same applies to racial minorities."

Right to Privacy

How many times has it happened to you?

You're at home enjoying your evening meal and the phone rings between the soup and the fish. A saccharine voice seeks to sell you a magazine subscription or an almost-free trip to Florida. You groan and reach for the blue bottle, feeling like that guy on television who complains to his wife that he can't believe he "ate the whole thing."

You'd think these salesmen or salesladies (women's lib, you know) would know the psychology of interrupting a man at the dinner table is not conducive to easy sales. But the solicitors have their rationale, too. They know that ordinarily they'll find the "boss" at home at suppertime.

So they take their chances, but if a congressman from Wisconsin has his way, there'll be a figurative "no solicitors" sign hung on the telephones of the long-suffering American public.

Rep. Les Aspin has introduced a bill which would allow persons who don't want to be bothered by telephone pitchmen to have their names listed in some manner with the local telephone company office, probably with an asterisk beside their name to indicate their attitude.

Firms or individuals seeking to make telephone sales would be required to check with the telephone company first and would be compelled to skip over families on the "do not call" list.

In making a pitch for his bill, the congressman said it was the most popular he ever had introduced. He said he had received more than 200 letters from approving voters from all over the United States in just a single month. And he cited some of the complaints.

Letters came from young and old, from retirees and from city officials. The tenor of many of the complaints was that "calls always come when I'm in the middle of something—eating, taking a nap, taking a bath, or when someone's ill. And they call three and four times a week."

One elderly letter-writer an invalid, said she had been solicited commercially over the phone by an undertaking firm.

Rep. Aspin maintains that if there's any place where the right to privacy is absolute, it's in one's home. He feels the 200 letter-writers have told him it's time Congress acted. Now he hopes that the letter-writers are contacting their own representatives in Congress.

Fulbright's Critic

Government-wise listeners were not surprised at the outcome when the bureaucrat who dared call the view Senator J. W. Fulbright displayed about motion pictures made for propaganda abroad "very simplistic, very naive and stupid." Bruce Herschensohn, the $36,000-a-year brilliant director of the U.S. Information Agency's motion picture and television division, resigned within the week partly to "spare the agency political harm"—since Fulbright's committee supervises its work—and partly so he could speak out in public.

In his first public press conference, the audacious young man—he is 39—added fuel to the fire. He accused Fulbright of "left-of-center" foreign policy views and charged that the Senator was trying to downgrade the U.S. Information Agency in a way that could be "tragic for this nation and catastrophic for the people of other nations."

Herschensohn said out loud what many officials have been saying among themselves since Fulbright assumed the chairmanship of the committee. Herschensohn's statement admitted that his words were "inappropriate but they were accurate. And, under the circumstances, as I know them to be, they were kind."

The pity is that Herschensohn is a most talented producer, whose work has brought accolades to the agency and impact on foreign countries where it has been shown. Unfortunately, his criticism came at a time when the agency's budget was under review by Fulbright's committee. Frank Shakespeare, director of the agency, sent a letter of apology to Fulbright, but the Senator did not think that was enough. As a marked man, Herschensohn became the sacrificial lamb.

WASHINGTON — If the next 19 presidential primaries turn out to be as confusing as the first four, the Democratic National Convention in July will certainly be welcomed with relief. For there is very little indication of just who the Democrats want as their nominee.

In Wisconsin, a large number of votes were cast in the Democratic primary, and it is being taken for granted by observers that many Republicans crossed over to express protest and voted for different candidates on the Democratic side. Yet President Nixon received a high total vote and got 97 per cent in the Republican primary.

The Wisconsin contest didn't give the country any clear aspirants for the high office and what they really stand for. Senator George McGovern won with 30 per cent of the Democratic vote. Governor George Wallace got 22 per cent and Senator Hubert Humphrey, 21 per cent. Senator Edmund Muskie ran fourth with 10 per cent. But the campaign speeches were brief and were confined principally to television appearances and short commentaries.

Not only will the Democratic party have to write a platform that will be thoroughly understood by the average voter but its nominee will have to state specifically what steps he plans to take to carry out the party policy that will be adopted by the convention.

The Republicans haven't had any battle on their side because no opposition of consequence has arisen to the renomination of President Nixon. He has received in the primaries already held an overwhelming majority. The Republicans will nevertheless find it necessary during the campaign to make a comprehensive explanation to the people of both of the actions that have been taken and of the plans that are proposed for the next four years on the important domestic questions.

Nobody knows what may happen on the international scene. The Vietnam War issue itself is not readily debated because large-scale American involvement started in a Democratic administration, and President Nixon has brought the number of troops in Vietnam down from more than a half-million to less than 100,000.

Mr. Nixon's visit to Moscow in May, coupled with the friendly discussions he had with the government at Peking, is expected to bring agreements on the limitation of arms and thus help cut defense expenses and relieve some of the tensions in the world.

The big problem now is how to reduce taxes and provide an economic recovery that will enable the federal government to collect sufficient revenues to assist the states in financing many of their projects. The President probably will spend much of his time campaigning after the Republican convention has been held in August and a platform outlining a program of economic expansion for the country has been set forth as a possible sequel to the period of restraints which business and labor have been undergoing.

Not a great deal has been said by any of the candidates on the Democratic side to indicate what policies they will really sponsor on vital domestic issues that confront the country. These are the things that will influence the trend of the voting.

One of the main questions will be whether the nominee chosen is capable enough to take over the government and let an experienced President be put out of office next January. The effects of a change in the economic recovery program will be discussed during the campaign. It may prove to be the controlling issue with many voters.

Little of this is being mentioned in the state primaries because President Nixon's candidacy for the Republican nomination is not being challenged and will not be. He will be the party's nominee at the August convention.

The country will certainly want to know what the Democratic nominee expects to do on the major problems of Domestic reforms and foreign policy if there should be a change in the presidency. Not much light on the subject has been shed in the primaries thus far. The aspirants for the Presidential office have not yet made comprehensive speeches on many topics, and the combat is mostly between the individual candidates. But this is the custom in campaigns, and in the next 19 primaries there will be lots of attacks on one another.

What the people are looking for, of course, is a clear explanation of the issues and what a prospective nominee might do if he won the election.

A New Kind of Mayflower

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The Mayflower shivers in the cold sun as the giant 747 turns her back to the loading ramp and moves out to the taxi lane. The blast shimmers across the wings of the silvery Mayflower, but she does not shudder in shame, because this 707 is special, and will always be special. She was the first U.S. jet ever to fly commercially — October 26, 1958.

She is a bright and airy workhorse that day, 13½ years ago, when she lifted off Idlewild and headed for Europe. She has even outlived the name of the airport. Today it is John F. Kennedy. Today, Mayflower will fly a hundred tourists to Bermuda, a short 660-mile hop.

Pan American Airways, the owner, is also old and wise. So is Juan Trippie, who dreamed of global airways in 1924, when he organized Colonial Airways. In June, Trippie, who founded Pan American Airways in 1927, will be 73. He cannot get new engines. The Mayflower can.

The 707 rocks out to the runway, burning more fuel on the ground than Linbergh required to fly to Paris in 1927. There, the 707 waits in line. It wasn't like that the evening of Oct. 26, 1958. When the doors of the Mayflower were loaded Captain S. H. Miller moved the four throttles a little; Captain W. W. Lynch watched out the windows for ground traffic.

The DC-7s and Electras melted from Mayflower's majestically swept back wings. "Rolling," Miller said into a microphone. The Boeing engineers who built her had little sentiment. She was dubbed B-707-12, N711, a kind of aerial computer.

At the top of the runway, flight engineer James Etchison studied his dials and buzzers and told Miller she was ready. Mayflower had been test-flown many times at Seattle. Now she was ready to make history. In the sumptuous quarters behind the flight deck, 40 first-class passengers clicked their seat belts. So did 71 economy passengers.

Captain A. O. Powell checked his navigational chart for the fourth time. Mayflower was flying New York to Paris, but for safety's sake, she would stop at Santa Maria, the Azores. Idlewild Tower gave a wave-off to Pan American Flight 114.

The four Pratt and Whitney engines whined higher to a shriek, the brakes went off, and Mayflower started down runway 13-R. In seat 4-A, Colonel E. E. Fogelson felt his hand clutched by his wife. She watched the concrete spin under the window.

Mayflower, with her fuel, passengers and luggage, weighed 230,400 pounds. Runway 13-R was 8,900-feet long. Captain Miller required 160 knots speed before liftoff. Mayflower surprised him. She was ready 1,500 feet before the end of the runway.

Her water injection engines left a black bridal trail in the sky. In the quiet, other captains in other aircraft watched her go, listened for her intermittent thunder. She averaged 510 knots. Mayflower loved the high altitudes. The thinner the air, the less strain she felt. In the morning, she was in Paris.

On the ramp, Mayflower accepted the official accolades modestly. She made history, and this was but the first of 12,381 safe landings. Since that day, she has flown 21,300,784 nautical miles. This is the equivalent of 46 round trips to the moon.

She cannot believe that she has carried almost one million passengers to all of the great airports of the world. A lot of people to a lot of places. And, through turbulence and lightning and serene nights under a full moon, Mayflower has never hesitated to do her duty.

In her long life, she has had 175 fresh engines. Her wings were modified. Now she flies on Pratt and Whitney JT3D-3 turbofans, which make her work easier and swifter. She is not embarrassed to know that seat 4-A, first occupied by Greer Garson, has several times been used by infant beauties who wet it.

Mayflower cannot compete with the big 707 Intercontinentals, nor the 747s. Nor would she be pleased to compete. She executes her short-run tasks with better performance than when she was brand new. In fact, she works seven hours, two minutes every day of her life.

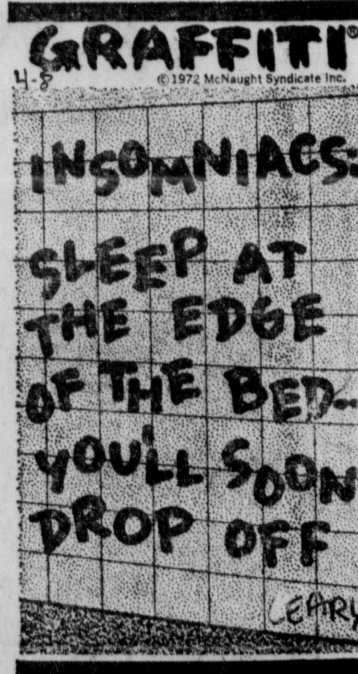

Once, in 1968, Mayflower was happily flying out of New York for San Juan. She was hijacked by six men. One held a gun to Captain Alvin Walker's head. Habaneros looked up at her silvery thunder. She made her landing, and left Havana without incident.

Today, she sits elegantly and empty on the ramp, dozing in a cold sun. The 747 air blast makes Mayflower shudder, but she's a lady. She knows her place.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Sorry, I was robbed at the office!"

Egypt's Move Is Labeled A Diversion

BEIRUT (AP) — Egypt's break in diplomatic relations with Jordan is an attempt to divert attention from his failure to make good on his promise to get the Sinai Desert back by the end of 1971 or go to war with Israel.

The Egyptian leader told a special session of the guerrilla-dominated Palestine National Council in Cairo Thursday night that King Hussein's plan to create a Palestinian state is a betrayal of the Arab cause and Egypt had no choice but to break relations.

Sadat told the wildly cheering crowd that Egypt "is holding wide consultations to bring about joint Arab action against King Hussein's deviation from Arab unity." He suggested Israeli's deputy premier, Yigal Allon, had a role in the king's action.

There have been numerous reports, repeatedly denied by both sides, of meetings between Hussein and Allon, who suggested a peace settlement with Jordan similar to the one the monarch proposed March 15.

Egypt's federation partners, Libya and Syria, cut ties with Jordan after Hussein cracked down on the Palestinian guerrillas in his kingdom in 1970 and then drove them out last July. But Sadat's move could threaten the Hashemite kingdom's economic future and its air links with Europe.

When Syria closed its air space to Jordan last July, the only practical air route left was over Egyptian territory after a detour around Israeli-held Sinai. Syria recently eased restrictions on overland traffic, but Sadat's action may force it and neighboring Iraq to tighten them again.

A Jordanian government spokesman expressed regret at Egypt's decision but said there would be no comment on practical effects of the move until all related information was studied.

Peace Drive to Continue In Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholic housewives and politicians pledged today to continue their peace drive despite its formal rejection by the Provisional IRA.

The "Provos" fight on statement Thursday night coincided with what a British army spokesman said was the most intensive bombing attack on British troops in three weeks.

The spokesman said at least nine nail and gelignite bombs were thrown at soldiers in various Roman Catholic areas but caused no casualties or significant damage. An explosion at Crumlin, a mainly Protestant village 14 miles north of Belfast, demolished a pub.

In Londonderry, a boy about 10 placed a package with a small bomb next to an armored vehicle, then casually strolled off, the army said. It exploded seconds later without causing any injuries.

"We were so taken aback that we didn't even think of making a move to catch the boy," said one soldier at the scene.

Monica Patterson, leader of the Women Together group of Roman Catholic housewives seeking a temporary truce in the IRA's violence campaign, said the Provisionals' rejection of their drive did not deter her group.

"The message from Andersonstown is still loud and clear that the Catholic community wants peace," she said. "If the IRA lose their immediate support in the area, they cannot continue their violence campaign. We will continue to organize for peace."

Ivan Cooper, one of six Social Democratic and Labor party (SDLP) members of the suspended Northern Ireland parliament, said his party also would continue to work for peace. The SDLP is the political voice of the province's 500,000-strong Roman Catholic minority.

The Provisionals' statement issued in Belfast and Dublin said they would suspend operations only if the British government met their three-point peace plan of March 10, when Britain announced it would impose direct rule.

The demands include withdrawal of British troops from the streets and eventually the province, amnesty for all political prisoners, and a British government declaration of the right of all Irishmen in the north and the Irish Republic to decide Northern Ireland's future.

Romance... Except for 'Spelling'

By Abigail VanBuren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 74 years old and have been a widower for four years. I live alone and am able to look after myself nicely, so don't get the idea that I need a cook and housekeeper.

I have been keeping company with a very nice widow of 65. She is an intelligent woman, gets along well with people, and would make an ideal companion. But there is one problem. I am a college graduate and she has had only a sixth grade education. You would never know it by her conversation, but she has written me a few letters, and Abby, her spelling is terrible.

How can I get her to improve her spelling without losing her?

ON THE FENCE
DEAR ON: If the lady's poor spelling is a problem to you (and apparently it is), gently suggest that she try to improve it. And if you lose her because of it, you really didn't want her much in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: I have news for "one of the finest vets in the profession, Dr. Salk of Palm Springs, California," who states there are no homosexual cats.

We have a male dog (name withheld) and a male cat (name also withheld) who have no sex lives other than their gay lives together. We, and our family, and what friends we have left can attest to this after many years of embarrassed observations.

I would make a film of these two consenting adult animals for you and Dr. Salk, but the Georgia pornography laws are too stiff.

ASHAMED IN ATLANTA

DEAR ASHAMED: No need to be ashamed. Don't apply human behavior codes to animals. They haven't read the Bible and know nothing about incest taboos and homosexuality. Given a choice, your male pets would choose partners of the opposite sex.

DEAR ABBY: I am guilty of being one of those people who will say, "Why don't you come over some time?" Only, I am very careful who I say it to.

I have a husband I can never pin down. If I try to plan something, he says, "Maybe I'll be tied up late at work," or, "I don't like to make any commitments too far ahead." But just let someone drop in, and my husband is the grandest host you could imagine, and he really enjoys himself.

I admit, there are some people you can't ask to "drop in" without having them move in with you like the man who came to dinner. But when I say, "Why don't you come over some time," I really mean it.

LIKES COMPANY

DEAR LIKES: I'm sure you do. But most people appreciate a little advance notice.

DEAR ABBY: It will not help "Practically Untouched in Tulsa" to "see" a lawyer or a judge. (Lawyers are generally too busy, and judges are usually too old.)

What she needs is to "see" a young construction worker.

I SAW A JUDGE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Musts This Summer

The Calanese fabrics people, after covering the European couture collections, listed some items no fashionable female should be without come summer. These included the white jacket, a striped shirtwaist dress with matching Windsor tie, two pleated skirts preferably navy, one to the knee, one just above the ankle, a printed skirtmaker dress with pleated skirt, one red outfit, and something green, something yellow.

CABARET COMMITTEE — Cabaret Night at Temple Emanuel, Albany Avenue, is scheduled for Saturday, April 29. Shown here making arrangements for the annual event are (L-R) Mrs. Joan Fein, Mrs. Susan Motler, Mrs. Marlene Eitter and Mrs. Judy Robins, standing. Legion Auxiliary Schedules Bake Sale

All members are requested to bring donations to the store by that time or arrange with another member to pick up their contribution. More information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Agnes Schaffer, Mrs. Virginia Whitaker or Mrs. Rita Sachs, chairmen.

The regular monthly meeting of the Auxiliary will take place Thursday, Apr. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Post Home on John Street, Saugerties.

Tiny Tips

Smock Plus Ropes

Variations of the artist's loose-fitting smock are showing up as topping for pants. Designers finish off the costume with tasselled or plain ropes of jewelry hanging almost to the waist and with big, "door knocker" earrings.

For Safety-Sake

A safety-minded home decorator does not place a mirror at the foot of a staircase. The mirror might be decorative, but it's also a potential hazard because it can detract from the business of walking down stairs. Many persons are tempted to watch their reflection instead of where they should be putting their feet.

'White' for Summer

Ever-flattering white runs throughout the summer fashion collection. Stiff white linen with a slightly glazed surface ran through collections from Paris. White jackets were worn with printed dresses, trousers of pleated skirts. Or, they were shown over ankle length dinner dresses, skirts and formal evening gowns.

Doing the Right Thing

(© 1972 Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

Since it couldn't matter less, I'm going to tell you the answer to all of the following questions before you even look at them. It is "either." I have received questions from readers concerning every one of the following problems, and in each case I can only say "whichever you prefer." Read the quiz and see if you agree that there is no right or wrong in answer to each question.

1. Q. When John Smith Sr. dies, does John Smith Jr., become John Smith Sr., or does he continue to use the Jr. as he always has?

2. Q. If "Jr." or "junior" the correct form following a man's (or his wife's) name on a visiting card?

3. Q. When soup is served in a cup with two handles, is all the soup eaten with a spoon, or is the cup picked up by the handles?

4. Q. Should the cards with the donor's name which accompany wedding gifts be displayed with the gifts or should they be removed?

5. Q. When vegetables are served to you in a small side dish, should you eat them from that dish or should you spoon or pour them onto your dinner plate?

6. Q. Should fathers of a bride and groom stand in the receiving line, or may they leave that to the mothers, and circulate among the guests?

7. Q. In signing Christmas cards by hand, is the husband's or the wife's name written first?

8. Q. Are thank you notes for a wedding gift from a couple written to the wife only or to "Mr. and Mrs."?

9. Q. When a gift is in order for a hostess with whom you have spent a night or a weekend, do you take the gift with you or send it after your visit?

10. Q. When you are planning an informal dinner party of eight to twelve people, should invitations be issued by telephone or in writing?

11. Q. Should a bride who is planning a small wedding send printed or engraved invitations, or should she send handwritten notes?

12. Q. At a formal nighttime wedding should the mothers of the bride and groom wear long or short dresses?

Postmaster Lists Mail Techniques

KINGSTON
Sales promotions and contests that ask people to mail items which could cause injury to U.S. Postal Service workers are now banned by law.
Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk said that in the past, sales promotion techniques frequently resulted in the mailing of envelopes that contained "underpackaged" metal and plastic articles.
"Articles such as bottle caps, jab tops, can lids, and metal package opening strips, can injure postal employees as well as damage mail processing equipment," Newkirk said.

A Postal Service official told a recent congressional hearing that such articles were actually being projected with considerable force by high speed mail sorting machines. Employees were also subject to injury when they reached into collection boxes to remove mail that contained sharp metal objects, he said.
The United States Criminal Code has long barred from the mails any article that may kill or injure persons or damage mail or property. The new law strengthens this prohibition by adding a section that reads: "Any advertising, promotional, or sales matter which solicits or induces the mailing of anything declared nonmailable by this section is likewise nonmailable unless such matter contains wrapping or packaging instructions which are in accord with regulations promulgated by the Postal Service."

The law prescribes a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment for up to one year for each violation, Newkirk noted.

Five Corneal Transplants Reported

KINGSTON — A total of five sight-restoring corneal transplants during the past fiscal year was reported today by Charles Schaller, chairman of the Kingston Lions Eye Bank. According to Schaller, this represents the highest total in one year ever recorded by the Kingston Lions Club.

The human eye tissue used for such corneal transplants is made available through the eye bank's Eye Donor Program, a project in which members of the public pledge the donation of their eyes on death to the Kingston Lions eye bank. The eye tissue is provided by ophthalmologists free of charge. There is no charge to the recipient of the transplant for the tissue.

Corneal transplants, Schaller said, are now quite commonplace and have become increasingly successful in restoring vision to those whose blindness is the result of damaged or diseased corneas. A critical factor in restoring sight to those so afflicted, he added, is the availability of human eye tissue for the operations. Schaller pointed out that the steadily greater success of corneal transplant operations has prompted a great increase in the need for human eye tissue for transplant purposes. In view of this, he urged all those who have not already pledged their eyes to do so, thus to make such a pledge—so that making possible the gift of sight to a blind individual who otherwise would live in continued darkness. Those willing to write or call for a pledge card by contacting any member of the Kingston Lions Club.

Equine Vaccination Clinics Planned

LAKE KATRINE — The first will be held at the Lowlands Ranch Club show grounds, Lake Katrine from 9 to 10 a.m. The second will be held at Veterans Memorial Field, Saugerties, across from the High School, from 2 to 3 p.m.

Only healthy non pregnant horses over six months of age will be accepted at the clinics. A fee will be charged. A certificate of vaccination will be required at most horse shows this summer and will be issued at the clinics.

The Ulster County 4-H horse leaders urge all owners to have their horses vaccinated. Horses can die or be left useless and children can become seriously ill from this virus. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Walter Ciosi or Arthur Heidcamp for the Lake Katrine clinic and Mrs. Ted Layman or Mrs. Stanley Olsen for the Saugerties clinic.

Man Is Charged With Menacing

ELLENVILLE — A warrant issued by Judge Elias charging the man with failure to appear in court to face a charge of driving while intoxicated that dates back to Feb. 18, according to police. Police is held on bail of $560.

DAVIS was held in $150 bail pending disposition of the charge. He was accused of slapping a resident at 154 Center Street on the face and pulling a knife on April 1.

Also scheduled to appear on April 11 in court is Czar William Polick, 29, of Terrace Heights, this village, who was arrested Wednesday on a bench

Marbletown First Aiders Ready Kits

TOWN OF MARBLETOWN — Stations for items donated for the kits. Spurred by the recent tragic train-bus crash in Rockland County, volunteers of the Marbletown First Aid Unit have intensified their efforts to collect for the kits will be prepared and stockpiled at strategic locations throughout the area served by the Marbletown First Aid Unit, ready to serve in multiple-injury disasters such as the one that took the lives of four students and injured several others in Rockland County.

Town residents are asked to contribute such items as sheets, towels, blankets, wash cloths, chemically treated wash towels, and elastic bandages. Used items are acceptable as long as they are clean, Mrs. Weber said.

Other items acceptable include plastic baby bottles, which are used to hold saline solutions used to prevent gangrene infections, assorted bandages, scissors, and heavy plastic squares.

Those who are unable to contribute such items can participate by making donations of money that will be used to furnish other first aid items not normally found in the home. The disaster kits will be placed in homes, fire houses, and certain schools in the area, Mrs. Weber said.

Resolution

CHAUNCEY M. LANE departed this life on March 16, 1972 in his 81st year, he was born October 2, 1891 at West Hurley, New York the son of Marcus and Mary Keller Lane. He was educated in the school systems of Hurley and the City of Kingston.

He was a veteran of World War I and a member of American Legion Post 150. Fraternally he was a former member of Kingston Rotary Club and a former member of Kingston Lodge No. 10 F & A.M. and Cyprus Shrine. He was a Director of the United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County and a former member of the Ulster County Real Estate Board. He was a director and 1st Vice President of the old National Ulster County Bank—which merged with the State of New York National Bank.

He was widely known in the construction field as a partner in the firm of W.E. Joyce Company. Among the important structures erected by that company were the Rondout Creek Bridge, Rondout Savings Bank on lower Broadway, recently demolished by the Broadway East Project, the Home for the Aged on Washington Avenue and the Governor Clinton Hotel.

In the early 1940's he and E. Frank Flanagan formed the realty firm of Lane & Flanagan and for many years they conducted extensive realty developments in Kingston and the surrounding Ulster County area. At Mr. Flanagan's death he continued the business individually. The success of this corporation rated him as an authority in local land values and he served many times as an appraiser and realty expert in condemnation proceedings.

Politically he was an ardent Republican—he served several terms as Ward Chairman and also on municipal boards and commissions.

In 1932 he was elected a Director in the Savings & Loan Association of Kingston and has served since. His accomplishments as Director, as a member of the Building, Executive, Planning, Construction and Appraisal Committees, his knowledge of construction and realty values were all invaluable contributions to the development of the Association, its services to the people of this area and added considerably to the growth and development of the Association. His construction knowledge helped the Association immeasurably in the original construction and after enlargements and improvements of our various offices.

WHEREAS, Divine Providence has called Chauncey M. Lane our friend and long time associate from our midst and

WHEREAS, His services and devotions to our organization has won the sincere thanks and respect of his associates, his judgement and advice so beneficial to our success and development shall always merit our fullest appreciation

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

APPLAUSE!

That's what you heard—loud and long—if you were lucky enough to have caught a performance of Glenn Taylor last weekend, in Roberto's Lounge. Not in recent memory has an entertainer of such talent, versatility and personality come upon the scene in this area.

Glenn Taylor not only sings with easy artistry and smooth sound . . . he not only accompanies himself expertly on the guitar (sometimes with almost the sound of a trio) but he satisfies the requests of his audience from an amazing repertoire of songs: pop, show tunes, country, folk rock, calypso and foreign standards (in seven languages)! Whatever the style, whether singing, whistling or yodeling, each song seems to be Glenn's forte.

He comes to Roberto's for a limited appearance before going back to New York City, where he has appeared steadily these past few years at top spots, including the Americana Hotel, El Morocco, Manhattan Hotel, Town House Hotel, and just closed at The Tuscany. I was fortunate in having a professional connection who strongly advised my grabbing Glenn Taylor while he was open, and I'm tickled pink that I did!

I don't think I am sticking my neck out when I say that the Kingston area seldom sees "in the flesh" an entertainer of his caliber. Whatever you do these next couple of weeks, make it a "must" to catch Glenn Taylor at Roberto's on Friday or Saturday evening. Come early and be prepared to stay late . . . because he does a magnificent job of holding an audience spell-bound.

I really believe that some day when you see Glenn Taylor on a stage or TV screen, you'll say: "I first saw him at Roberto's!"

School Board Meeting... Some Pre-Election Sparks

SOME pre-election sparks flew at Thursday's meeting of the Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

They came in the form of a resolution submitted by Mrs. Marianne Darrow, which asked that, in the future, board members be required to refrain from using "privileged information" to wage their campaign for reelection.

Her resolution was apparently prompted by an incident which occurred last year, when a board member running for reelection told an audience in the Town of Hurley that their tax rate would decline this year. That information was supposedly obtained from an earlier meeting of the board's business management committee.

Mrs. Darrow contended Thursday night that all candidates for the school board — both incumbents and newcomers — have access to the same information that may have a bearing on the outcome of the election. She pressed for the resolution to assure that a similar incident not occur again this year, prior to the May 2 elections.

Her resolution, however, was soundly defeated. Joseph Feraca seconded the motion, but then voted against the resolution, along with the rest of the board.

Mrs. Darrow's resolution read: "In fairness to all candidates, be it resolved that no privileged information known only to board members be used in the election campaign, unless that information is supplied to all candidates."

Board president Thomas Reynolds told The Freeman following the meeting that the substance of Mrs. Darrow's resolution was already included in the board's own code of ethics.

The article in the board's code of ethics that apparently covers Mrs. Darrow's complaint reads: "No member of the Board of Education, Officer or employee, whether paid or unpaid, shall disclose confidential information acquired by him in the course of his official duties, nor use such information to advance his financial or other private interests."

Following Thursday's meeting, Mrs. Darrow said her resolution was not aimed specifically at Mrs. Evelyn Corsones, (who addressed that Hurley gathering last year), and that she did not know if it represented a blatant attempt to "rig" the election.

Mrs. Darrow's resolution led to further discussion on a related matter during the public portion of the meeting that followed adjournment. Fred Hoffbauer of Rosendale contended that "more information should be divulged to the tax-payors" about the goings-on of the school board. Reynolds countered by saying, "In general, there is full disclosure to the public of matters discussed by the board."

Also discussed Thursday night was the status of the state funds for the district's Drug Decision program. In April, it was revealed that state budgetary problems forced a major curtailment in the amount of money available for educational programs for next year. The Board unanimously passed a resolution asking the state to restore the money.

Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Szlmann reported Thursday that he has received responses from Assemblyman H. Clark B. (R-Woodstock), and Senator Jay P. Rollison (R-Poughkeepsie). Neither could guarantee restoration of the money, but both said they are aware of the problem.

Martorana to Seek State Senate Seat

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Maverick Republican, Joseph Martorana, former supervisor of Plattekill, will announce his candidacy Monday for the State Senate in Ulster County's new 40th District thereby creating a possible three-way primary. The Freeman has learned.

Martorana, formerly a very vocal member of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, and the County Legislature who is now employed in Albany. He is perhaps best known for publicly switching his allegiance at the last minute in the 1968 GOP Primary from Peter J. Savago to the victor, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell. Savago is presently chairman of the Ulster County Legislature.

Martorana reportedly also sounded out the Democratic Party in his latest attempt for the nomination for the Senate. When he announces, Martorana, a former insurance man, will be faced with a primary between Republican Richard Schermerhorn who was denied the Orange County GOP nomination because he accepted a cross endorsement from the Conservative party and Republican Anthony Barone, an Orange County legislator with the Orange County GOP endorsement. Schermerhorn has the Ulster Republican nomination however.

Martorana, who split with Savago over the recognition of the Civil Service Employees Association in Ulster County and who was denied the 1969 GOP endorsement to run for reelection to the Legislature, also lost a court bid to get on the 1969 Ballot as an Independent.

At one time, the former president of the Ulster County Supervisors and Legislators Association he was also chairman of the Plattekill GOP Club.

Martorana has been an outspoken mentor of such things as proper planning for the Stewart Air Base, the establishment of a County Youth Bureau and a County Human Rights Commission. He has also been opposed to an Ulster County Airport, county park and unprotected railroad crossings.

Dem Convention Set Saturday

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Ulster County Democrats will choose their candidates for election Saturday afternoon in what Chairman James T. McCord calls "an open convention" at which anyone who wants to have his name placed in nomination may do so.

The possibility of dual nominations for the 101st Assembly District looms with Maurice Hinchey Jr., of Saugerties, a previously announced candidate and A. Michael Schovel of Saugerties a possible rival for the post. Schovel has been in Florida this week and unavailable for comment although he said he is considering a primary if he fails to get the nomination.

The Democrats have pledged themselves to unseat incumbent Republican H. Clark Bell in the Assembly.

The second Assembly seat up for grabs in Ulster County is the 99th. Two Dutchess County contenders are trying for the Democratic nomination — Philip Magnarella and Setiro Kazolias. Both met with Ulster Democrats Thursday night to discuss their candidacies. Each hopes to oppose incumbent GOP Assemblyman Emel Betros.

It is expected that Benjamin Sears Hunter, a Newburgh lawyer and former Orange County Democratic chairman will be nominated for State Senate from the 40th District. Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. A Putnam County lawyer, Democrat John Burns has reportedly announced his intention to run but to date has Democratic rules prohibit cross endorsements. In the past the Liberal Party has reportedly been gentry to Hunter in his role as county chairman.

Hunter, if nominated will face either incumbent Republican Sen. Richard Schermerhorn or Republican Anthony Barone who will face each other in the June Primary.

At present the Democrats are reportedly without candidates for the posts of county clerk or coroner but, as McCord said, are always hopeful that good candidates will come forward. He said he would like to see a medical doctor run for coroner as they have done in the past on the Democratic ticket.

In the race for the three congressional seats open in Ulster County, the incumbent Democrat John Dow of the new 26th District is of course expected to get the blessings of the Ulster convention.

A new name, that of Democrat D. Steve Rahmas of Stanford, has been proposed to run in the new 27th District where Republican Assemblyman Edwin Mason is making the run for Congress. Ulster Democrats, although they have received a communique from Rahmas concerning his candidacy, have not met him as yet and will therefore withhold their nomination for the present time.

There is also a question of whether they will endorse a candidate to oppose incumbent Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. A Putnam County lawyer, Democrat John Burns has reportedly announced his intention to run but to date has Democratic rules prohibit cross endorsements. In the past the

Annual YMCA Dinner Meeting... 'Recognition Night' Is Theme

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — "Building for Tomorrow — Today" was the theme Thursday night of the Annual Dinner Meeting of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, a meeting that paid tribute, in part, to the many persons who sacrificed long hours to bring to fulfillment the "Y's" new $1.2 million Broadway facility.

This week is Dedication Week for the new YMCA complex; formal dedication ceremonies will take place Saturday. In the meantime, varied activities are taking place each day to introduce the new YMCA to the people of Ulster County.

could have been termed "recognition night." Awards and citations highlighted the evening's program.

The most prestigious honor was accorded Christos Larios, chairman of the "Y's" building committee, who was selected "YMCA Leader of the Year" by the Board of Directors. He has been a member of the Board of Directors for the past four years; served as its vice-president this year; and has been a member of its executive committee for the past three years. He was among those most responsible for the erection of the new YMCA addition.

Kingston High School and a full-time volunteer at the "Y," was selected "Youth of the Year" because of her "bubbly optimism and her dedication to helping the younger boys and girls at the Y." Pamela assists with the "Y's" many youth programs and has been a volunteer with the YMCA's Pre-School Youth Development Program.

Robert Stubbs, general director of the "Y," was also among those spotlighted Thursday night. Stubbs, in a brief address, said "Together, we're reaching the goals of this Association."

Others were feted Thursday night as well. Dr. Jack L. Roos, president of the Board of Directors, commended the efforts of departing board members Minford Overfield and Richard Riseley. Overfield, in addition, was presented a "special certificate of appreciation" for his years as chairman of the board's budget committee.

Bruce F. Stout, 1971 president of the YMCA, was also cited for his work on behalf of the association and he, in turn, commended the efforts of all the board members.

The growth of the YMCA, and its 108 years of dedicated service to the community, were noted throughout the evening's program, and they were repeated and underscored by the guest speaker for the night, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock).

"We've watched Ulster County grow and prosper over the years," said Bell. "The new YMCA facility is another stride forward to make Kingston and Ulster County a better place in which to live and work."

YMCA DINNER — Testimonials highlighted Thursday's annual dinner meeting of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, and among the long line of persons who praised and were praised included Bruce F. Stout (L) 1971 president of the YMCA and Christos Larios (third from left) who was selected the YMCA's Leader of the Year. Dr. Flemming Dedication Speaker

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming will be a speaker at the dedication program for the new YMCA building on Broadway, Saturday morning at 11 a. m.

Dr. Flemming, a former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in President Eisenhower's cabinet, currently serves as chairman of the White House Commission on Aging. His father, the late Ulster County Surrogate Judge Harry S. Flemming was president of the YMCA Board in 1911 when funds were raised for the YMCA building, constructed in 1912. Ceremonies will be held in the parking area to the rear of the new YMCA building with free refreshments and tours of the building afterward, according to Dr. Jack L. Roos, president of the YMCA board of directors.

Roos stated that other participants in the program will include Howard C. St. John, YMCA trustee; the Rev. John Gilmore, pastor of the Riverview Baptist Church; Alfred Schmid, president of the YMCA

Paltz Board Approves Sidewalks and Sewers

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Town Board, in a special session, following public hearings held Wednesday night, approved both the sewer and the sidewalk district proposed for Route 299 east of the village.

Town Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello said the sidewalk, which will cost in the area of $9,000, may be in by the end of this summer.

The costs of both districts will be borne solely by district residents.

Moriello said the sewer district must still be sent to the Department of Environmental Conservation for approval, and the town engineers, Brinnier and Larios, have estimated it will be 18 months until the completion of the sewer project.

Gallo Signs Vehicle Order

KINGSTON — Acting Mayor T. Robert Gallo on Wednesday signed an order relating to parking motor vehicles on a section of Clinton Avenue in uptown Kingston.

Gallo proclaimed a one-hour parking limit from meters at the Senate House continuing in a southerly direction along the westerly curb on Clinton Avenue to the intersection of John Street.

The regulation will continue until further notice not to exceed 30 days or until parking meters are installed in that area. The order was dated April 5, according to Officer Ernest Bartroff, traffic supervisor for the police department.

Yogi Gets Another Chance and Rusty Staub

NEW YORK (AP) — If and when the baseball season gets under way, Yogi Berra will manage the New York Mets and Rusty Staub will be in right field.

Less than four hours after the body of Gil Hodges was buried Thursday in his beloved Brooklyn, the Mets named Berra, who won the 1964 American League pennant with the New York Yankees in his only previous managerial experience, to replace him.

At the same time, they announced the acquisition of the hard-hitting Staub from the Montreal Expos in a 3-for-1 deal. The Mets gave up outfielder Ken Singleton, first baseman-outfielder Mike Follis and infielder Tom Foli, all young players and all expected to be regulars for the Expos.

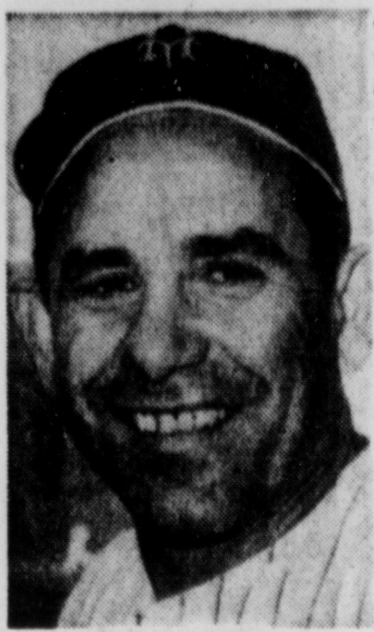

The Staub deal was consummated last weekend and General Manager Bob Scheffing said it would have been announced Sunday but for the baseball strike. To add to the confusion, Hodges collapsed and died of a heart attack late Sunday afternoon.

"We just couldn't sit on it any longer," Scheffing said when asked why the dual announcement was made the day of Hodges' funeral. "It even leaked out today. The Associated Press had it before we announced it. We were lucky to sit on it this long."

The naming of Berra, who will be 47 next month, as manager climaxes an unusual career for the Hall of Fame catcher who saw him star for 17 years with the Brooklyn Yankees and manage them for one season, only to be fired after losing the 1964 World Series to the St. Louis Cardinals in seven games. He has been the Mets' first base coach ever since.

The rap on Berra at the time was that he failed to communicate with his players and that the Yankees were a team divided—the good guys and the high liners.

"I didn't think I did a bad job when the Yankees won the pennant in 1964," Berra said. "If I could do here what I did over there I'd be very happy. I didn't think I had any problems over there, so what am I going to have here?"

Why, Berra was asked, would he elect to give up virtual lifetime security as a coach to sign a two-year contract as manager, even with the raise it carried?

"I always said if the right offer came along—close to home and with a contender—I'd be willing to manage again," Berra said. "I want to do it; that's all there is to it. It never entered my mind one bit to prove the Yankees were wrong when they let me go."

What if he gets fired again, an occupational hazard common to almost all managers? "That's baseball," he said. "If it happens, I'd still like to stay in baseball."

Berra was passed over twice previously by the Mets—in 1965, when Casey Stengel broke his hip and was succeeded by Wes Westrum, and in 1968, when Westrum gave way to Hodges.

This time, however, the Mets "felt Yogi was the guy for the job," Scheffing said. "He's managed before in the majors and he's been with the Mets longer than anyone else. I was a broadcaster when Yogi managed the Yankees. The first two months he had problems, but the last two months he did as good a job as anyone could have."

"We left a good man today," Berra, still wearing his dark blue funeral suit, said, referring to Hodges. "I hope I can fill his shoes, that's all."

The Mets also got a good man in the 28-year-old Staub, who hit .311 with 19 home runs and 97 runs batted in for Montreal last season and could be the slugger the Mets have long been seeking. The red-haired outfielder, known as "Le Grand Orange" and extremely popular in Montreal, has a career average of .281 with 135 homers and 640 RBI in nine big league campaigns, six with Houston and three with the Expos.

"Staub gives us good hitting—Tommie Agee, Cleon Jones, Jim Fregosi and Staub," Berra said. "That's not bad if you've got those four men batting together."

"I think we're of championship caliber, on a par with the '64 Yankees. We have a better pitching staff. Maybe not as much power, but I think we'll make some runs this year."

Singleton, 24, hit .245 for the Mets last year with 13 homers and 45 RBI. Jorgensen batted .220 with five homers and 11 RBI in a half-season with the Mets after hitting .342 with 15 homers and 41 RBI in the International League. Foli had a .226 average with the Mets with no homers and 24 RBI. All three are considered good prospects.

"We traded three good young players," said Scheffing. "The Expos are only four years old and you don't find guys this close to making it in that young an organization. If two or three make it, it will hurt us. But we should be a better ball club this year."

In Montreal, Staub said it was "very difficult not to be disappointed" at leaving the Canadian city. "When you've been an integral part of something for a three-year period and you've enjoyed being a part of it, it's very difficult to transfer your mind that quickly."

"I was sorry about leaving the people in Houston, but it turned out to be one of the greatest years of my life in Montreal. I'm sure after a little time I'll be very receptive to New York. When I put on a Met uniform I'll be a Met 100 per cent."

The Strike...No Progress

NEW YORK (UPI) — The lines in baseball's seven-day-old strike appeared to be hardening today as the National League clubowners closed their clubhouses to player workouts and Marvin Miller charged the owners with having rejected their own offer for a settled contract.

ML President Charles Feeney ordered all teams to stop letting the players work out at their home stadiums Thursday and American League President Joe Cronin issued a similar order. Several clubs in both leagues had permitted players to work out in their home stadiums.

Miller threw a new verbal dart at Thursday night meeting with the world champion Pirates in Pittsburgh. He then returned to New York to huddle with John Gaherin, the owners' representative in the stalemate negotiations.

"This is an unusual strike situation," said Miller after his meeting with the Pirates. "After rejecting our original proposals, we made some concessions to the owners on their terms, but then we've received no counter-proposal. It's a remarkable state of affairs."

Miller also needed the clubowners when it was suggested that he was being ousted as an evil personality because of his role in the dispute over pension and medical benefits which reached an impasse last Friday.

"What the owners have done, perhaps, is make me a symbol for the contempt they hold for the players," said Miller. "They talk as though the players are a bunch of stupid jerks."

"In reality," added Miller,

"players of today are in every way different, regarding awareness, than the players of 25 years ago. But the owners are the same people who were running the game then."

Miller shrugged off the fact that the owners are denying workout facilities to the players with the comment, "This is the business of the owners."

Miller and Gaherin met earlier Thursday in New York but failed to make significant progress. Gaherin then conferred with Feeney and Cronin who were in New York to attend the funeral of Gil Hodges, former manager of the New York Mets, who died of a heart attack on Easter Sunday.

Despite the apparent lack of progress, there were reports that the owners were willing to offer a compromise to the 17 per cent "cost of living" increase demanded by the players for their pension fund. The players argued that the 17 per cent increase was necessary to "stay even" with the terms of the agreement they made with the owners three years ago.

The feeling in baseball, however, was that a majority of the owners still favored the "hard line" voiced two weeks ago by Gus Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals. Busch said then that he "didn't give a damn" if the players went on strike and "wouldn't give them another cent."

A total of 16 scheduled games has been postponed and cancelled and there appears to be no chance that the season can start before Monday. The National Broadcasting Company will deduct $200,000 from its contract with baseball Saturday night with the scheduled Game of the Week between the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox is not played.

Fairbairn's Tally Boosts Rangers to Win

It Was Bill's Biggest Goal

By COMBINED SERVICES
NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't really feel like a hero—although it's nice to be thought of that way," Bill Fairbairn said. "But it is, I guess, the most important playoff goal I've ever scored."

The goal by the New York right wing, his second in Stanley Cup play, was a tie-breaker just 20 seconds into the final period Thursday night catapulting the Rangers toward a 5-2 victory over the defending champion Montreal Canadiens.

The triumph also gave the Rangers a commanding 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League quarter-final series. The next two games are set for Saturday and Sunday nights in Montreal, where New York came up with a victory and two ties in three regular season games.

Fairbairn's goal—his first in the playoffs—came Wednesday night in a Rangers 3-2 victory over the Canadiens in what was an odd one in that it was almost a long shot that ended Montreal goalie Ken Dryden, who earlier had been making occasional spectacular saves.

"I came over the blue line with the puck after taking a pass from Walt Tkaczuk and tried to get it back to him. But it hit J.C. Tremblay and bounced back to me—and all of a sudden there was this opening. So I shot," Bill said.

But Tremblay got a piece of Fairbairn's arm just as he swung his stick and the puck skittered at half speed toward the goal. Dryden, unable to handle it, whirled around just as the disc struck the left post and ricocheted into the net.

Then Fairbairn set up Tkaczuk's goal with 4:26 to play and, with about a minute to go and Dryden out of the net in favor of a sixth attacker, Ted Irvine scored into an empty goal.

Guy Lafleur had given Montreal a 1-0 lead with 6:05 gone in the game but the Rangers, outskating the Canadiens most of the way and outshooting them 36-28, stormed back to take a 2-1 lead after the first period on close-in goals by Dale Rolfe and Ron Stewart.

On a fluke goal after New York defenseman Brad Park tried to smother a loose puck, he couldn't control it and, when Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin came 10 feet out to help his teammate, Claude Larose poked at the puck, which emerged from the tangle of arms and legs and floated into the unguarded net.

Hockey buffs with a short memory and a long dislike for the favorite can begin to take hope once again that the big Bruins can be had.

Just one year ago, in the second game of the Stanley Cup quarter-finals, the supposedly invincible Bruins blew a 5-1 lead to Montreal, losing the game, 7-5, and eventually were eliminated by the Canadiens.

Once again Boston rates as the big favorite in this season's playoffs, but once again the second game of the quarter-finals has proved a hex. This time Toronto overcame deficits of 2-0 and 3-2 to whip the Bruins, 4-3, Thursday night on a goal by Jim Harrison at 2:58 of sudden death overtime.

"We figured we could beat them and this will give us a big boost," said Harrison, whose 30-foot slapshot enabled the Leafs to slingshot to a 1-1 standoff in Boston, with the next two games of the best-of-seven set to be played in Toronto over the weekend.

The third other playoff Thursday night to form Thursday night with the home team winning in each case for 2-0 leads. In another sudden death overtime, Bill Goldsworthy scored after 1:36 to lift the Minnesota North Stars to a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Blues; the New York Rangers scored three goals in the final period to beat Montreal, 5-2; and the Chicago Black Hawks edged past the Pittsburgh Penguins, 3-2.

Games three and four in each series will be played Saturday and Sunday, with the sites shifting to Toronto, St. Louis, Montreal and Pittsburgh.

First period goals by Fred Stanfield and Phil Esposito gave Boston a 2-0 lead, but Toronto answered with goals from Dave Keon and Jim McKenny in the second period. After Johnny Bucyk put the Bruins ahead again, Guy Trottier drew the Leafs even at 3-3 at 9:42 of the final period, setting the stage for Harrison.

Goldsworthy was standing outside the crease to the left of St. Louis goalie Ernie Wakely when he poked in a rebound of a shot by Jude Drouin. Drouin, and two other assists for Minnesota.

Frank St. Marseille scored the first three goals for St. Louis while Dean Prentice, who had two goals for the North Stars the previous night, forced the sudden death with a goal at 11:32 of the third period.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus was trying his best to soft-pedal talk about a "grand slam," but that golfing dream was bright and shining today as he threatened to turn the 36th Masters golf championship into a runaway.

"I'll play better tomorrow," promised Nicklaus after shooting a four-under-par 68 Thursday in the Masters' opening round for a one-stroke lead over nearly 60-year-old Sammy Snead and two strokes over a 42-year-old Arnold Palmer, who is trying to rediscover his winning touch with a pair of contact lenses.

"Better" play Friday could boost Nicklaus into a huge lead at the midway point of the Masters, and set the stage for a drive to become the first man ever to win the Masters, U.S. PGA, and British Open, and PGA first of the four to be contested in one year—the (this year it's the last.) That professional "grand slam." But you won't find Nicklaus talking about that, except to be polite.

"If newsmen ask me questions about the grand slam, I answer them," said the blond 1971 PGA champion. "But I never start it. The way I feel about it is — well, if the grand slam ever happens to anybody it will just happen. It would be foolish for somebody to say to himself, 'Now I'm going to go out and win the grand slam.' "Heck," Nicklaus laughed, "here I am worrying about whether I can get a 75 and make the cut and somebody is always asking me about the grand slam."

Last year, of course, there was even more talk about the grand slam when Nicklaus won the lot of left-to-right shots. Here you have to make a lot of key shots right-to-left.

dream died right here in Augusta when Nicklaus finished second in the Masters behind Charles Coody. But there are golf experts who think this year is Nicklaus' best chance, because all four tournaments are being held on courses where he's played well.

But you can't win four until you win one, and Nicklaus insists he's got "problems" to overcome before he can win here.

"I have been concerned about my game for some time, and that's why I've been working so hard on it," he said. "And for the Masters there are certain adjustments you have to make to play on this course and I've been working on them. For instance, most places I play are windy and you have to make a lot of left-to-right shots. Here you have to make a lot of key shots right-to-left."

One of the things I've been working on have come iron shot a lot closer to the hole than I normally would."

In the first round, Nicklaus made some good shots and he said, "It worked fine. And some bad shots. I will make more good shots in the second round."

The first round's drama for Nicklaus was packed into a six-hole span—the 11th through 16th holes—during which he went from two-over-par to four-under-par with an eagle, four birdies, and one par.

Until then Snead, who will be 60 next month, was in the clubhouse as the leader after a stunning 33-36—69 that turned the clock to his glory years. Asked if it was a "fun" round for him, the old Slammer drewled, "Fun, hell—there was blood on every shot."

A gamble with an iron shot on the 11th hole was, Nicklaus admitted, the thing that "turned it around for me."

"I decided I had to get something going, so I hit the

But way back at 75 and battling to survive the cut now is Lee Trevino, the U.S. and British Open champion who passed up the Masters twice in the past because he didn't feel his game was suited to the course. Golf's "Super Mex" never got untracked Thursday, bagging only one birdie against two bogeys and one double bogey.

Coody, of Abilene, Tex., held the lead at one point in the day when he clouted a five-iron into the cup for a hole-in-one in the 190-yard sixth hole, a downhill shot to a comparatively small green. But then he immediately took a duffer's triple-bogey on the seventh hole and starters in the first round were finished the day as one of nine players at one-over-par 73.

Holden, Mass., and Wake "My caddy had to tell me how many shots I took." Coody will be 22 next month, each cracked. "I lost count."

I CAN'T BELIEVE IT — Arnold Palmer, who finished the first round of the Masters Thursday with a two-under-par 70, can't quite believe his eyes (contact lenses and all) after he missed a birdie putt on the sixteenth. Jack Nicklaus is the leader with 68. (UPI)

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—It's a simple fact of life that by the time a golfer reaches 60 years of age he doesn't think about trying to win major golf tournaments.

That is unless he is "Slamming" Sam Snead who, although he'll reach that 60 mark next month, still is showing the youngsters a trick or two out on the golf course.

Jack Nicklaus, the only man to outshoot Snead in Thursday's opening round of the Masters Golf Tournament, thinks Sam is going to keep on doing it for quite a while yet to come.

"You are never surprised to see Sam anywhere," said Nicklaus who outscored Snead 68-69. "Snead is capable of winning whenever he tees up. And he will continue for 15 more years."

Snead was five strokes ahead of Nicklaus through 10 holes Thursday but failed to improve his 3-under-par while Nicklaus picked up six strokes in a six-hole span. At that, Snead would have shared the first round lead if he hadn't missed a two-foot putt on the final green.

But Snead didn't appear disappointed. "There was no excuse for missing that two-footer," he said. "But that was my only three-putt green in a 31-putt round and if I can get through this tournament with no more than three or four three-putt greens, I'll be ahead of the game."

Sam Snead, appearing in his 32nd Masters, is a three-time Masters champion but it has been 18 years since his last victory here.

"I feel I still play pretty well from tee to tee although I play a softer shot now and don't try to overpower the ball," Snead said. "My trouble has been my putting. Those 31 putts was the best I've done this year. If I had done that well at Doral (where he finished fourth), I would have won there."

Although Snead has won barely a third as much money as Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer—who, incidentally, is in third place, one stroke behind Snead, going into today's second round of the Masters—he has won more golf tournaments than the two of them put together. At last count he had won 84 PGA events and 131 tournaments overall.

If he had made that two-foot putt at 18 Thursday and shared the first round lead with Nicklaus he would have been, by nearly 13 years, the oldest leader in Masters history.

Julius Boros was 47 when he led the three-round lead in 1967 and all-but-forgotten Emmett French was 47 when he shared the first round lead in the inaugural Masters in 1934.

Snead, who birdied three of the first four holes Thursday said he thought the fairway here at the Augusta National "are the best I've ever seen them."

But he quickly added that he couldn't say the same for the greens.

"When those things get hard come Sunday," quipped the bald West Virginian, "there will be a lot of people pulling the hair and they'll be like me."

NEW YORK (AP) — "The crowd here really makes a difference," Baltimore's Jack Marin observed. "It really gets the adrenalin going."

The capacity crowd of 19,588 shrieking fans at Madison Square Garden was on Marin Thursday from the moment he began taking practice shots to the time his final point total of 16 was announced.

In between the booing, jeering and vilifying, the crowd was charged up for New York. And the Knicks responded with a late surge—after they had blown a 16-point lead—to beat the Bulls 104-98.

The victory in the National Basketball Association playoff deadlocked the Eastern Conference best-of-seven semifinal series at two game apiece, sending it back to Baltimore for Sunday's nationally-televised fifth game. No. 6 will be next Tuesday in New York.

Marin was the target of the fans' anger because of a brief fight he had with the Knicks' Phil Jackson during last night's 104-103 fourth game victory by the Bulls in Baltimore.

And, conversely, their wrath heightened their cheering whenever New York grabbed a rebound, stole a pass or scored.

After holding a 50-47 halftime lead, New York ran the Bulls off the court in the first six minutes of the second half, outscoring them 20-7 to take a seemingly solid 70-54 lead.

But Mike Riordan, who posted 21 points, of Baltimore almost singlehandedly shredded it.

Slamming in a series of long jumpers, then driving in for layups when the Knicks came out to stop him, the 6-foot-4 guard who had averaged only nine points in the first three games helped the Bulls scramble back within nine points going into the final quarter.

And while he stayed hot, New York suddenly got cold, and with six minutes to play, Baltimore was in front 90-89.

"For a while there," Walt Frazier said, "it really looked bad. Nobody could hit—and we had the open shots. The problem was we were shooting the ball a split second too soon.

And when we did that, that damned Riordan was so quick we just weren't getting back fast enough to stop him."

The Bulls cut it to three with about 2½ minutes remaining but Frazier canned two more baskets to seal the victory.

The Bucks captured their best-of-seven quarter-final series with the Golden State Warriors in five games Thursday night by winning at Milwaukee, 108-100, and now they must prepare to meet the Los Angeles Lakers.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Billy Cunningham, Jack Ramsay and eight college players figured prominently in off-the-court activities in basketball Thursday.

TOP TOWNSOME—Susie Atwood (L) and Jennifer Bartz top their lungs with air after finishing one-two in the women's 440-yard individual medley at the AAU Swimming Championships Thursday at Dallas, Texas. Miss Atwood's time of 4:28.85 set a new American and AAU event. (UPI)

World Mark For Susie

DALLAS (AP)—Susie Atwood's best mode of transportation in the water seems to be her backstroke.

She's used it to establish a world record in the 200-meter backstroke and it worked to perfection Thursday night as she set one American record and shared another in the National AAU Short Course Swimming Championships.

Miss Atwood became the meets first double winner by lowering the women's 400-yard individual medley American record to 4:28.85 and swimming the backstroke leg on the Lakewood Aquatic Club 400-yard medley relay team that set an American record of 3:57.43.

Gary Hall of Indiana shared top billing with Miss Atwood by lowering his American record in the men's 400-yard individual medley to 3:58.09.

Hall, whose old record was 3:58.25, overcame Rick Cletti, during the freestyle leg of the race.

Hall's record-breaking splits were 52.6 for the butterfly, 59.9 for the backstroke, 1:12.0 in the freestyle and 53.59 in the breaststroke.

Steve Genter of Lakewood lowered the meet record in the 200-yard freestyle twice Thursday. Genter set a record of 1:39.84 in the morning preliminary and came back to win the final in 1:39.23.

In the finals, Genter beat former American record holder Mark Spitz, who was second, and the defending champion, Frank Heckl of Southern Cal, who was third.

Kim Peyton of David Douglas, Portland, Ore., won the women's 200-yard freestyle and the Indiana A won the men's 400-yard medley relay in other finals held Thursday night.

Records set here are not counted as world records because of the length of the Loos Fieldhouse pool—25 yards. World records can only be established on 50-meter pools.

Hawks Score First Victory

HAMPTON, Va. — Pinch hitter Bob Moir, a junior outfielder from Wantagh, L. I., knocked in five runs in two big rallies, as New Paltz State University's baseball team came up with 14 runs in the last two innings to defeat host Hampton Institute 16-11 here Thursday.

It was the first win of the spring southern tour for Coach Pete Kramer's Hawks who dropped their opener to College of Albemarle, N. C., 7-1 Wednesday.

The Hawks, limited to six hits in the opener, did a complete turnaround, slugging 14 hits, collecting 11 bases on balls and being aided and abetted by numerous fielding indiscretions on the part of Hampton.

Moir, who pinch hit for starting left fielder Tom Williams in the big eighth, unloaded a two-run double to key the eight-run rally. In the ninth inning he slammed a base clearing double as the Hawks closed with six runs.

Dean Briggs, Albany, sophomore pitcher, was staked to a 2-0 lead by the Hawks in the first inning. He handed over the 14-7 lead to reliever Charlie Silverberg in the ninth and Hampton proceeded to rack him up for three doubles, two walks and four runs, but it was too little, too late. Briggs, who walked 10 and struck out seven was credited, of course, with NP's first win of the season. "They gave us some help in those last two innings," commented Coach Kramer, "but we also delivered some key hits. I think we're in better shape now for the two remaining games down here."

The Hawks combined five singles, with a walk and four

Hampton errors for their 8 runs in the 8th. Silverberg, John Hernandez, Bob Kozak and Vince Schettini added singles to Moir's pinch double. Four bases on balls and two errors assisted New Paltz in the ninth. Catcher Hernandez stroked three singles and had two RBIs for New Paltz. Schettini, Silverberg, Steve Galuski and

John Jay Defeats NP

NEW PALTZ — Paul Hedges led the John Jay hitting attack with a double, a triple and three RBI's to power the visiting Patriots to a 7-2 thrashing win over New Paltz Thursday.

The Marlboro-Arlington game was cancelled due to poor field conditions.

Alan Bonagura, making his first varsity start for the Hedges, surrendered three runs in the first inning, enough to mark him with the defeat. The Pats' Ken Prince cracked a base hit to bring one across, and Hedges doubled to chase two home.

Winning pitcher Jim Lynch helped his own cause with two hits and two RBI's. He worked four innings yielding four hits and seven walks while striking out two.

Floyd Martz, New Paltz's hard-hitting centerfielder, had the Hedges lone extra-base knock of the day, a double. Joe Williams and the Fairweather brothers, Mike and Pete, each had a single.

The Hedges trailed 4-0 before George Clark tallied in the bottom of the second to put them on the scoreboard. Another pair by Jay in their half of third offset New Paltz's next run. The Patriots closed out the scoring with a run in the fifth inning.

It's Time to Kiss the Earth Again

ALEXANDRIA, Va. Green fields and flowers. Skies swept clean by wind and rain. Bright stars — glimmering, shining in unison with your own heartbeat. Sunlight on a country road. The sound of birds and silence.

This is the world that was. Long ago. Then, of course, came urban blight. But now the wheel is turning. We know we must repair the damage, heal the wounds, recover the treasure that we have lost. It is time to kiss the earth again. And how better than with flowers?

"The beautiful is as useful as the useful," said the poet Victor Hugo. Possibly the great Frenchman had in mind the soul's refreshment at the sight of green trees, plants and flowers.

Today our desecration of natural beauty has come home to us. Shattering. Our composure, we have discovered, can vanish in an instant on a noisy city street. There is something deeply alien and offensive in the sound of motors, the sight of glaring lights, crowded signs and bald cement. But quietude can return, spirits can relax in places made beautiful with green grass, plants and flowers. How can we hasten the healing return of natural beauty to our lives? Happily, we need not rely entirely upon civic groups, city planners or bureaucrats. Individuals, too, can create a more beautiful environment — quickly, economically and dramatically — by planting annual flowers.

The busy man, woman or youngster who wishes to create a colorful, long-blooming garden almost instantly and entirely without professional help can do so by purchasing, then merely setting out in the ground fully-rooted, mature and ready-to-blossom annual flowers available in early spring until early fall at garden centers and greenhouses. In just a few hours, you can create a garden which only a few weeks later will be filled to overflowing with continuously blooming flowers. If you miss spring planting, furthermore, you can plant throughout the entire summer.

How is this instant garden possible? Immensely improved growing and marketing techniques in the past three decades have revolutionized the bedding plant industry throughout the U.S. Once gardeners had no choice. The painstaking method of sowing seeds indoors and eventually transplanting flowers outdoors was the only way to grow annual flowers.

There is rich satisfaction in guiding and watching a seed's development from tiny speck to robust flower. However, for those who lack the time, space and equipment to undertake this work, yet love natural beauty, rooted annuals that flower almost immediately happily fulfill a need.

Bedding Plants, Inc. and the Society of American Florists stress five points in planting and growing the annuals of your choice:

- Buy fresh flats of transplants that are dark green in foliage color, short in height, and free of insects and diseases.
- Place sun-loving or shade-loving flowers in the right location.
- Prepare soil in flower beds or planters properly.
- Do not plant until danger of frost is over.
- Space plants properly water when needed, and keep free of dead flowers or yellow foliage.

The choice of annuals is vast, the range of colors, textures, shapes and fragrance richly varied. Consider the old-fashioned geranium, unfailing messenger of cheer. Visualize a cascade of pink petunias, the nation's favorite annual flower. Enjoy the sensual delight of stock, a column of spike-shaped flower, world-famed for its sweet fragrance.

Not to be forgotten, also, are dianthus, ageratum, asters, cockscomb, coleus, dahlias and impatiens; lobelia, begonias, marigolds, pansies, primroses and pinks; snapdragons, portulaca, sweet alyssum and salvia, zinnias, verbena, vinca and zinnia.

Editor's Note — This is the first in a series of articles on annual flowers. Next: "What Are The Nation's Ten Favorite Garden Flowers?" For brochures on planting annuals, send twenty-five cents to Bedding Plants, Inc., P.O. 356, Carleton, Mo. 48117.

Bedraggled Lawns Need Help

Even with the best of care many lawns emerge from winter in a bedraggled state. Whether the cause has been smothering under ice, snowmold disease, drying out from winter winds, pounding by sleds and winter traffic, inadvertent scuffing or salt damage due to deicing, the "cure" is the same: Mainly it involves replacement of dead grass and thickening of thin stands by a bolsterseeding, seconded by encouraging all live grass through fertilization.

Use only top quality seed for overseeding and make every effort to see that the seed contacts the soil. If only a few spots need refurbishment, claw out duff there with a sharp tined rake or cultivating fork and then reseed. Scratch the seed into the top half-inch of soil. You might scatter loosely a bit of the duff as a mulch on top of the seeding. For large areas rent a de-thatching machine (sometimes called lawn thinner, power rake or vertic mulcher) to expose the soil. Perhaps you will want to scarify a second time after the seed has been spread, to be

$400 Thousand Suit In Supreme Court

KINGSTON — About $400,000 is being sought in Ulster County Supreme Court this week by Nicholas Pascarella and Arnold Parodi, co-partners of Tranquility Farms, a former Esopus-Rosendale poultry farm who are claiming a malfunction in equipment purchased from an out-of-state firm. The defendants are the M.K. Hoke Estate, Wayne K. Hoke individually doing business as M.K. Hoke Estate and Kitson, Poultry Equipment Corp.

The jury trial before Justice William F. Christiana began Tuesday in Supreme Court and entered its third day Thursday with only one witness Arnold Parodi called as of noon.

The plaintiffs are being represented by Guido Napoleotano, Kelly and Cassano and the defendant, Hoke is represented by Arthur Ewig and the defendant, Kitson by Francis X. Tucker.

was neglected in autumn. A lawn fertilizer rich in nitrogen is suggested, since nitrogen is the nutrient that most encourages foliage and deep color. If 50 per cent or more of the nitrogen comes from ureaform, the fertilizer may be termed "slow-release," meaning that all of the nutrient will not be immediately soluble, but rather that some of it will be parcelled out during coming weeks as soil bacteria break down the ureaform particles.

The recommended rate for most lawn fertilizers is about one pound of elemental nitrogen to the thousand square feet, which works out to about three or four pounds of high-analysis fertilizer (containing 25 per cent or more nitrogen along with lesser amounts of phosphorus and potassium).

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

NO CHURCH: (Q.) My dad does not believe in religion. I can't go to church. He doesn't allow me. I asked him if I could join my girl friend's youth group at her church. He said no. I talked it over with my grandmother and she asked him, but the answer was still no. I'd really like to have the chance to go to church. Can you help me?—15-Year-Old in Pennsylvania. (A.) In America a person is supposed to be free to choose the church he goes to. Or he is supposed to be free not to go to church if he wishes. Your father is exercising his freedom, but not allowing you to exercise yours. Freedom of religion is among those listed in the First Amendment to the Constitution which says, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. When you become an adult you will be free to make the choice you want. But I feel your father is making a mistake in not letting you follow your inclination now. You talked it over with your grandmother. Now talk it over with your father. Don't just ask him. Don't just mention it. Talk it over with him. When he sees you are really deeply serious, he may decide the First Amendment makes sense. I pray he will.

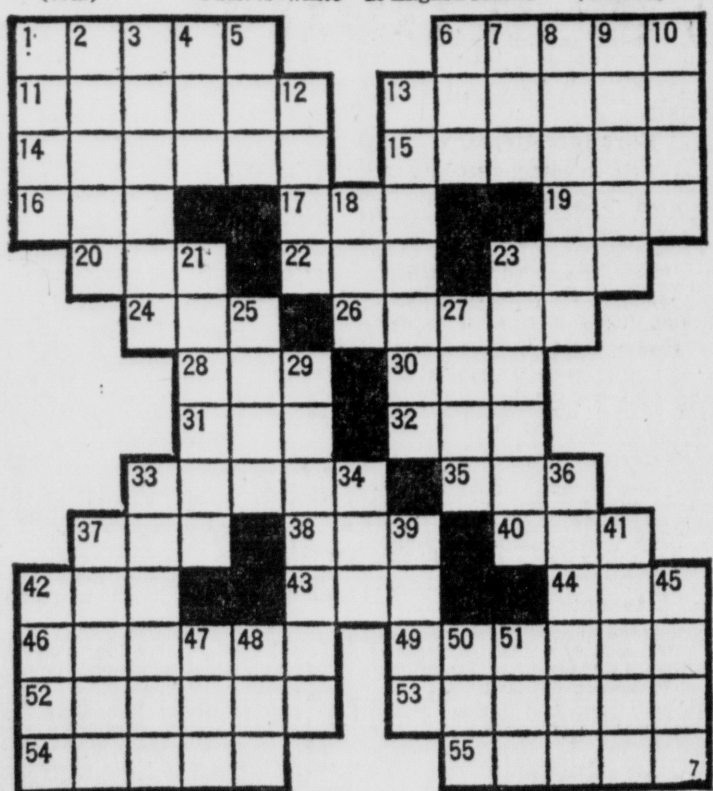

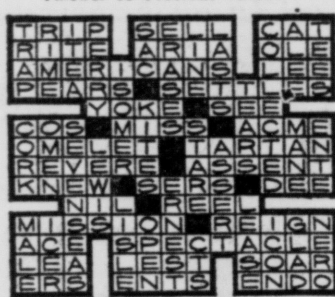

MALE MODELS: (Q.) Are male models in demand? I would really like to be one. I look all right, am five-foot-ten and weigh 130.—18 in New Jersey. (A.) Male models are an important part of advertising, selling and some other fields. A male model often works regularly at some other job and does modeling in addition. Pure handsomeness is usually not so important to a male model as a distinctive appearance and a feeling for clothes. Your measurements are good for a model. I believe the town where you live is small, but there are metropolitan areas nearby which have model agencies. You could register at one of them and possibly get some bookings.

Women Golfers on Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The women professionals are about to get into the big-money television golf tournament play.

Final rounds of the Inner Circle tournament, which carries the name of Dinah Shore will be televised April 15 and 16 on independent stations of the Hughes Sport Network. It will take place at the Mission Hills Country Club in Palm Springs, Calif., and is notable for its prize money which totals $110,000, including $20,000 for the winner, double any previous money award.

Carol Mann, among the top women pros, is of course delighted that purses in women's golf are moving toward the size of those in the men's tournaments. The big question is whether television audiences will be big enough to make it a yearly event.

While some of the 16 women's professional tournaments have been televised before nationally, they have not been often enough to build popular favorites comparable with Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus or Lee Trevino.

A problem is that golf-watching is basically a male pastime: at least four times more men than women are golfers.

Miss Mann, 1965 Women's Open champion, believes that the average duffer—lady or gent—would learn more about the game by watching the women than the male champions whose long games are spectacular but unattainable for most. Women are likely to have much shorter drives but to excel around the greens.

Since golf has been televised, the women, like the men, have become much more calorie-conscious and given more thought to their clothes. Carol likes to play in culottes or skirts and has a big wardrobe.

"The last time I played, I shot a 66," she said. "I decided it was a lucky skirt I was wearing. So I wore it the next day—and shot a 74."

Setting up a celebrity tournament for women has certain problems. While there were plenty of women celebrities who play golf in Southern California, most had handicaps higher than the 15 cut-off set by the committee. They quickly added a few strokes, so they have a full quota participants in the amateur play including Mrs. Bob Hope and Rita Hayworth.

The Professor won the heart with his king and proceeded to lay down the ace of spades. Then he led the ten of clubs and let it ride.

East won with the king. He thought for a while before leading another heart. This play turned out to be a mild mistake because the Professor proceeded to run off all dummy's clubs to discard all his three diamonds and make an over-trick.

Of course, West trumped the last club but he had to trump it with the king.

"Golly," said the student "How did you know not to take the trump finesse?"

"I didn't know anything at all about it. As a matter of fact, I thought that my failure to take it was going to cost me some tricks. The odds certainly favored East having the kind of modest as part of his opening."

bid. However, I put temptation aside and played to make my contract. Give East the king of spades and there was no way I could be set.

"Of course!" said the student.

"To avoid temptation," replied the Professor. "I like to finesse and wanted to be in my own hand so I couldn't."

ITT Investigation

60 More Witnesses Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Judiciary Committee may call as many as 60 more witnesses in its investigation of International Telephone and Telegraph—an inquiry thrown into new turmoil by revelations of apparent discrepancies in previous testimony.

In the latest developments: —The committee called a closed meeting at 10 a.m. EST today to vote on a plan that would continue the investigation until April 20 with a decision on whether to recommend the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst as attorney general coming by April 27.

—Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., in a month-old interview, published Thursday by the Baltimore Sun, said ITT personally pledged a $400,000 guarantee to help subsidize this summer's GOP National Convention. Geneen previously told the committee under oath that the only commitment made was $200,000 by ITT's Sheraton Hotels subsidiary.

—Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., turned over to the committee a sworn statement from an Internal Revenue Service investigator. He said the document supports claims that U.S. Attorney Harry D. Steward of San Diego blocked a federal investigation — while Kleindienst was an assistant attorney general — of illegal contributions for President Nixon's 1968 election campaign.

—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Tunney submitted a four-part list of witnesses they still want to question. Kennedy added that he hoped Mrs. Beard would be able to comply with a request to testify. "She has made a rather miraculous recovery," he said.

Neither did a story in the Union, published Thursday, contain any reference to any such statement. Union editor Gene Gregston said. Tunney's other revelation, involving Steward and Nixon's 1968 campaign contributions, imposes "an inescapable obligation" on the judiciary panel, Tunney said, to determine why Kleindienst cleared Steward of any wrongdoing. He said Kleindienst apparently ignored the IRS affidavit and similar statements by two other federal investigators in clearing Steward.

SHOT BY POLICE—Sagario Tio Diaz, a 21-year-old economics student, is carried away by fellow students after she was shot twice in the head by police on the University of Santo Domingo campus in the Dominican Republic. University faculty groups and students called on the government to end military occupation of the university, which was seized after disorders in which 10 students were injured and some 800 persons were detained. Damaging Evidence Against Angela

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Angela Davis has been tied indisputably to ownership of a paratrooper carbine and a Browning automatic pistol used to stage the San Rafael seizure of hostages. It was the most damaging evidence produced so far at her kidnap-murder trial.

A gunshot clerk told the jury Thursday that the former UCLA philosophy teacher bought the collapsible semi-automatic rifle which Jonathan Jackson, 17, pulled from his raincoat to commandeer hostages from a courtroom.

Another gun salesman said Miss Davis purchased the pistol which Jackson, the brother of "Soledad Brother" George Jackson, handed to convict James McClain to set off the bloody chain of events in which Judge Harold Haley was killed.

In her opening statement, Miss Davis has said, "It was no secret that I was the owner of the weapons."

The trial was in recess until Monday. Eighteen witnesses already have testified for the state and Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. said the proceedings were going considerably faster than anticipated.

Owen W. Swisher, a clerk in the Western Surplus Store in Los Angeles, reading from a store record said that on April 7, 1969, Miss Davis filled out a federal form required for the acquisition of the Plainfield paratrooper carbine.

Father Berrigan's Background Helped

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) —One of two jurors who held out for a conspiracy conviction of the Harrisburg Seven said Thursday the Catholic religious background of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and other defendants helped their case.

Evans said of the attitude of 10 panel members who wanted an acquittal. "They were really prejudiced."

But another juror, Vera Thompson, 44, the only black on the panel, denied religion affected the decision.

Evans said he and Juror No. 5, Kathryn Schwartz, remained convinced that the antiwar defendants plotted to kidnap White House advisor Henry Kissinger, blow up the Washington tunnel heating system and destroy draft records in several board centers.

The jury did convict Father Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister of peripheral counts of smuggling letters in and out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary.

Mrs. Thompson said that at the beginning of deliberations she had voted with Evans and Mrs. Schwartz for conviction on the main conspiracy charge.

Two County Pollution Agreement

OTTAWA (AP) — On the last day of his state visit to Ottawa next week, President Nixon will sign a Canada-U.S. agreement starting an ambitious trans-border attack on pollution in the lower Great Lakes.

Up is expected to reach $2.5 billion or more, with the U.S. accepting about 90 per cent of the burden. That's roughly in proportion to the amount of contamination which the U.S. accounts for.

Nixon arrives Thursday night. He and Prime Minister Trudeau will sign the agreement Saturday morning. Immediately afterward, he will go to the Ottawa's Uplands airport for the flight back to Washington.

Most of the expense of the massive project will result from construction of sewage treatment facilities on either side of Lakes Erie, Ontario and the international section of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Annexes to the instrument set out water quality standards and also outline a contingency plan for cleaning up oil spillages in Lake Erie.

The IJC itself is expected to be given increased authority to maintain pollution surveillance, through a control board responsible to the commission.

Authoritative sources confirmed Thursday that final agreement has been achieved on terms of the document, under intensive negotiation since late last year.

Cost of the three-year cleanup is expected to reach $2.5 billion or more, with the U.S. accepting about 90 per cent of the burden.

Scientists have warned that these waters face slow death unless the millions of tons of municipal and industrial wastes which pour into them annually are turned off.

The agreement is reported to follow closely the recommendations of the International Joint Commission, which in a report last year mapped a comprehensive program to review the lower lakes system.

Farm Prices Down, Unemployment Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices for farm products and processed foods declined in March following steep increases in February.

Another key report showed that unemployment in the nation rose 0.2 per cent last month.

The bureau said unemployment increased in March to 5.9 per cent of the labor force, from 5.7 per cent in February.

That was a sharp reversal from a 1.9 per cent increase in February, a 1.3 per cent advance in January and a 2 per cent jump in December.

Joe Gallo Is Killed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reputed mobster Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo, one of three brothers who fought a bloody battle in the 1960s for control of the Brooklyn underworld, was shot and killed today in a lower Manhattan restaurant, police said.

An increase in industrial commodity prices more than offset price declines for farm products and commodities ready for the consumer market, resulting in a 0.1 per cent overall increase in the wholesale price index, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Wholesale prices for farm products and processed foods and feeds—as the administration had predicted—declined 0.4 per cent during February before seasonal adjustment and Foods ready for the consumer market showed a 1 per cent wholesale price decline before adjustment and a 0.7 per cent drop when seasonal factors were considered.

Police said Gallo, 43, was slain in Paolucci's Restaurant in Manhattan's "Little Italy" section at about 5:30 a.m. EST. He was shot several times, apparently with a revolver, police said.

Gallo had been married to Sina Essary, a dental technician, in March. He told reporters at that time that he was giving up the rackets to write his autobiography. He had been released from Ossining Correctional Facility in June 1971 after serving nine years of a 7 1/2 to 14 1/2 year sentence for attempted extortion.
